KIOSK SUPPORTS COMMANDER’S 4X4 GOAL

The Legion Family branded kiosk will help raise $4 million and increase membership to four million.

By Henry Howard

American Legion National Commander Mike Helm didn’t want to single out a Legion program for his fundraising goal during his year-long tenure as national commander. Instead, he included all six of the Legion charity programs, as well as those from the American Legion Auxiliary, in his goal to raise $4 million.

The $4 million in Legion Family charity program donations represents one part of the commander’s 4x4 plan – the other “4” represents four million members for the Legion, Auxiliary and Sons of The American Legion combined.

“The goals look lofty, both for membership and fundraising, but in reality we’ll reach those goals together,” Helm said. “If we're going to be strong, we also need the Auxiliary to be strong, the Sons of the American Legion to be strong and the Legion Riders to be strong.”

To achieve Helm’s 4x4 goal, National Headquarters is providing new brochures and a kiosk display. All departments will receive one American Legion Family branded kiosk. The kiosk is intended to be used to display up to nine brochures during events, such as membership recruiting functions, job fairs and community events. Posts and departments can choose which specific brochures to display, but they are encouraged to use ones promoting Legion Family membership and charities.

It is the responsibility of each department to coordinate usage of the kiosk with districts and posts that wish to borrow it. Departments, districts and posts can also purchase additional Legion Family branded kiosks through Emblem Sales. To purchase, visit: www.emblem.legion.org/legion-family-kiosk/productioninfo/735.5041

Or call: (888) 453-4466

With each kiosk purchased, 100 of the following brochures will be provided:

- A new American Legion Charities brochure that provides an overview of the six programs and includes a donation form.
- A tri-fold with membership applications for the Legion, Auxiliary and SAL.
- The Auxiliary’s Foundation brochure that

Help veterans with VA needs

In reaction to the scandal that surfaced within the Department of Veterans Affairs last spring, The American Legion began hosting Veterans Crisis Command Centers (VCCCs) in June, helping veterans enroll in the VA health-care system, file benefits claims and check on the status of pending claims. Over the course of four months, the Legion held VCCCs in 11 cities and towns, helped more than 3,000 veterans and their families, and secured nearly $900,000 in retroactive VA benefits compensation.

On Sept. 30, the Legion transitioned from “crisis” to “outreach” and hosted its first, of many, Veterans Benefits Centers in Washington, D.C., assisting 378 veterans with VA benefits. After noticing the success the VCCCs were having, several American Legion departments and posts saw the benefit of hosting their own VCCCs by pulling together resources from the VA and other community providers to help local veterans with their health-care needs.

Post 71 in Lake Wales, Fla., hosted a veterans town hall meeting in July where local VA staff provided information on benefits claims, burial in a national cemetery, homeless outreach efforts and grants, and vet-ready centers to the more than 50 veterans in attendance. Also in July, the Department of Arizona conducted its first of three Veterans Crisis Command Centers. The department held VCCCs at posts in Mesa, Tucson and Peoria, assisting more than 100 veterans.

The Department of North Carolina hosted a Veterans Benefits Action Center Oct. 21-23 at Post 116 in Fuquay-Varina where Legion service officers and VA representatives assisted veterans with benefits claims and VA health-care enrollment. The department publicized the event through print and radio announcements and by collaborating with the Disabled American Veterans, The American Red Cross, Military Order of the Purple Heart, Wake and Durham County Veteran’s Services, and the local VA.

In effort to ensure every VA-eligible veteran receives their benefits owed to them, I encourage departments, districts and posts to conduct their own veterans benefits center. Partner with local representatives from the local VA and from other veterans service organizations and promote your efforts in the media. Remember, face-to-face advocacy can produce real results for veterans and their families.

NATIONAL ADJUTANT’S MESSAGE

Legion launches fundraising, awareness campaign

The TV ads focus on the mental health needs of today’s returning veterans.

By Daniel S. Wheeler

I recently sent a letter to national, department and post leadership announcing that The American Legion was launching a national awareness campaign on Oct. 28 to raise funds to help our organization assist veterans, their families, young people and communities. The first installment of the campaign focuses on the mental health needs of veterans, particularly those who are battling the signature wounds of today’s war era: post-traumatic stress disorder and traumatic brain injury.

The campaign is featured on various national networks and time slots. The network channels include: Smithsonian, Military, Hallmark Movie, Military History, Great American Country and Fox News.

Because these messages are aired nationally and before audiences that may be unfamiliar with The American Legion and its services, you and your post may receive calls, visits and other correspondences from veterans in need, or their families. If the request is routine, please handle as you usually would, as being a service organization.

If the need is urgent, refer the veteran or family member to a VA emergency support service, such as:

- Suicide prevention hotline: (800) 273-8255 and press 1
- Texting service: 838255
- Online chat service: www.veteranscrisisline.net

If a veteran comes to you or your post as a result of the message, please be welcoming and helpful. Offer him or her the services of the nearest accredited American Legion service officer, who can easily be found online: www.legion.org/serviceofficers

Or connect the veteran to local resources through your post service officer or other members.

If you have further questions, please feel free to contact Chuck Krupa, American Legion managing director of non-member fundraising: ckrupa@legion.org describes its charity programs.

“Posts, units and squadrons that are doing things for veterans and for their community are growing the organization,” Helm said. “Legion involvement at the local level is very important for membership success.”

Helm also believes a strong membership helps drive donations to the Legion’s six charities – Operation Comfort Warriors, Legacy Scholarship Fund, National Emergency Fund, Child Welfare Foundation, Endowment Fund and Soldier’s Wish. Several Auxiliary charities are also a part of Helm’s $4 million fundraising goal, including the Emergency Fund, Spirit of Youth Scholarship Fund, Children of Warriors National President’s Workshop and American Legion Auxiliary Foundation.

“The exciting part about fundraising for American Legion Charities is that you can tell people that 100 percent of all money raised is utilized for the charitable purposes,” he said. “If you give $1 to Operation Comfort Warriors or $1 to Soldier’s Wish, every dollar goes toward the fund that you care about.”

Tax-deductible donations to American Legion Charities may be made by mail or online by visiting: www.legion.org/donate

A donation may be made to one or more programs of your choice. Donations provide: financial assistance to military and veteran families with children at home who are in need; relief for families of veterans who have suffered devastating losses after natural disasters; employment opportunities for transitioning servicemembers through the hosting of job fairs; representation on Capitol Hill to protect military retiree benefits and to quality of life for military members; and more.

Q. What benefits does my state offer?
A. When most veterans think of VA benefits, their attention likely gravitates toward compensation for service-connected conditions, pension benefits, VA home loans and education benefits. These and many other federal VA benefits are the most widely publicized and utilized benefits for veterans and their dependents.

In many cases, the respective state of residence offers veterans assistance and rehabilitation programs and benefits. Many eligible veterans never realize that these programs exist and many do not have an idea of how to apply for the state-level benefits.

In the state of North Carolina where I live, the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs offers programs to assist eligible veterans and dependents with housing, property tax relief, employment preference, and educational benefits. North Carolina also offers guardian appointment, hunting and fishing licenses, veteran automobile license plates, and a veteran’s driver license. North Carolina is not alone in providing special benefits and programs to veterans and dependents. The state of Massachusetts and others states may partially or completely waive the cost of college at state-supported institutions for eligible veterans and dependents. Massachusetts also awards certain discharged military veterans with $500 to $1,000 based on honorable service.

Veterans can find their State Veteran’s Benefits information online: www.military.com/benefits

When applying for state benefits, it is important that the eligible veteran utilizes an accredited veterans service officer. Find a Legion service officer: www.legion.org/serviceofficers

An Internet search for state veterans service administration will yield a list of representatives or a point of contact. These state benefits programs were created and are funded to assist those who have served and those that have supported that service.

Post 479 in Swanton, Ohio

American Legion Family members from the 1st District of Ohio recently celebrated the 90th birthday of Post 479 in Swanton by “reliving the roaring 1920s.” A local high school band sang patriotic songs while the post hosted a hog roast and served food from the era.

Teddy bears support Legion programs

Vermont Teddy Bear Co. — the nation’s top producer of handcrafted teddy bears — is introducing limited-edition bears to support The American Legion.

The keepsake teddy bears feature the Legion emblem on a white T-shirt and cap, which can be personalized with a department, district or post name. Additionally, a collection of bears honoring all five branches of the military, as well as a camouflage bear, will be available for purchase. Twenty percent of proceeds from the sales of all the bears will be donated to The American Legion to help the organization continue to provide support to veterans and their families, active-duty servicemembers, youth and community members.

“The American Legion has a broad range of programs for America’s children, veterans and military families, and we welcome the support of Vermont Teddy Bear,” American Legion National Commander Mike Helm said. “Each purchase of these wonderfully crafted bears directly supports Legion programs, providing the necessary resources to continue our devotion to our fellow servicemembers and veterans.”

The specially designed American Legion bears are only available now through Dec. 24, 2015.

On Oct. 22, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced an increase to the Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA) for federal payments. The 2015 COLA for military retired pay, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) annuities, Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) disability and survivor benefits, and Social Security benefits will be 1.7 percent. This change will be effective Dec. 1, 2014, and it will appear in January 2015 payments, which will be paid on Dec. 31, 2014, because Jan. 1, 2015, is a federal holiday.

There are two groups of retired military servicemembers who will not receive the full 1.7 percent increase: servicemembers who retired in 2014, and servicemembers who selected the Career Status Bonus (CSB)/Redux retirement plan.

Military retirees who retired in 2014 will receive a pro-rated COLA based upon the amount of inflation experienced in the calendar quarters since they retired. Those who retired in the first quarter of the 2014 year (January, February or March) will receive the full 1.7 percent COLA, and those who retired in the last quarter of the year (October, November or December) will receive no COLA adjustment. Those who retired in the second quarter of the year (April, May or June) or the third quarter of the year (July, August or September) will receive pro-rated COLAs. However, those amounts have not yet been announced. All who retired during 2014 will receive full-year COLAs in future years.

Military retirees who chose the CSB/Redux retirement plan agreed to accept reduced COLAs in exchange for the Career Status Bonus received while serving. Redux retirees’ COLAs are 1 percent less than the regular COLA rate.

House and Senate staff members of the Armed Services Committees continue to draft a compromise Fiscal Year 2015 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) bill. However, it appears the Senate will be unable to pass its version of the NDAA specifying the budget and expenditures of the Department of Defense (DoD). The Senate Armed Services Committee passed its version of the NDAA, S. 2410, and sent it to the Senate floor where it’s on the Senate calendar and awaits debate. The bill provides $514 billion, including $496 billion for the DoD base budget and $17.7 billion for other national security programs.

The likely bill to be worked on by the Senate is the House-passed H.R. 4435, the Howard P. "Buck" McKeon National Defense Authorization Act, which is currently on the Senate calendar. The legislation authorizes $521.3 billion for the base budget and $79.4 billion for Overseas Contingency Operations, primarily in Afghanistan.

Even though the Senate has not passed a NDAA bill, the committee staff members are pre-negotiating a conference committee bill at this time for review when Congress returns on Nov. 12.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP

Live goat is membership incentive

District commanders in The American Legion Department of South Dakota have an incentive to meet their membership goal for 2014-2015 — a live goat named Pinocchio. As of right now, South Dakota district commanders believe that whoever has the lowest membership percentage will be taking care of the goat until the end of the following membership year when another district is lower in membership.

But Terry Hanson, South Dakota membership chairman, said he’s not going to make them take care of the goat — the goat will travel to district meetings and fall and winter conferences, but live at its owner’s home. Instead, he’s going to let everyone know at the mid-winter membership banquet and the department’s convention which district has the lowest membership by making the district commander wear a neon yellow T-shirt that says “Goatbuster” on the front and “S.D. Basement District Commander” on the back with the Legion emblem.

“The best part is, we are all having fun with the goat,” Hanson said. “I’m a big pusher in trying to get people involved and membership up.”

The goat has also helped raise funds for the various department programs. Whenever Hanson brings Pinocchio to a meeting, Legion Family members pay money for other members to kiss the goat.

Two-time American Legion Gold Brigade Award recipient Robert Wayne Hicks of Post 2 in Milford, Del., recruited 198 new members into the Legion in 2014, placing him in the top five overall. The U.S. Navy Vietnam veteran said he has already signed up enough new members to earn his third Gold Brigade Award for the 2014-2015 membership year; his goal is to earn National Recruiter of the Year status.

Hicks said he attended events, parties and banquets, "you name it, and I was there always asking (people) if they were a veteran or if they knew of a veteran. I leave no stone unturned.

"I think membership is the most important part of The American Legion. Membership numbers show our strength when our national commander goes before Congress or the president, and they see the greatest membership representing and backing him."

As the first vice commander of Post 2, Hicks said his officers know “that I will not procrastinate when it comes to membership or any of my duties.”
