INTRODUCTION

This guide is made available by The American Legion. It is filled with grants, scholarships, fee waivers, student loans, tax incentives, checklists, and a wealth of resources supplied to help you further your education. NEED A LIFT? will help to ensure your success. It can also help you:

- Choose a career and school.
- Get into college.
- Understand the student financial aid process.
- Learn options for saving and paying for college.
- Find federal, state, and military education assistance programs.

Also, an entire chapter is dedicated to scholarships and programs offered by The American Legion.

WHO IS THE AMERICAN LEGION?

The American Legion is the nation's largest veterans service organization, committed to mentoring and sponsorship of youth programs in various communities, advocating patriotism and honor, promoting a strong national security, and continued devotion to their fellow servicemembers and veterans.

This publication will save families time and offers useful resources to help further their education. It provides valuable information to assist children and spouses of disabled and deceased veterans pursue higher education, yet all students can benefit from the information within.

The American Legion's success depends entirely on active membership, participation, and volunteerism. The organization belongs to the people it serves and the communities in which it thrives.

IN THIS EDITION

CHAPTER 1: GETTING IN & PAYING FOR SCHOOL

YOUR NOTES

Chapter 1

GETTING IN & PAYING FOR SCHOOL

This chapter discusses getting organized, choosing a career, selecting a school, completing the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid), applying for scholarships, deciphering financial aid award letters, and understanding student loans. The FAFSA on the Web worksheet and helpful checklists are also included.

THE BASICS

How are you going to pay for your "after-high-school" education? Student financial aid is available to help you pay, but what does that really mean?

WHAT IS STUDENT FINANCIAL AID?

Oh, what a boring term! However, it could provide the money you need for your education.

Definition: Student financial aid is funding to help students pay educational expenses including tuition and fees, room and board, books and supplies, etc. for an education at a college, university, or private school.

Review the basics about student financial aid:

Expenses covered

- School expenses
- Tuition and fees
- Room and board
- Books and supplies
- Travel

Types of aid

- Scholarships
- Grants
- Work-study
- Student loans

Organizations that offer student financial aid

- College and universities
- Federal, state, and local governments
- The American Legion
- Military branches
- Employers
- Private organizations
- Religious groups
- Individuals

GET ORGANIZED

As you begin your college planning, if you commit to being organized and staying focused on your goal, the process will be easier to manage and less stressful. These tips will help:

- Create one folder per each school on your list for filing brochures, catalogs, correspondence, forms, and notes.
- Create a folder for scholarships you apply for and file scholarship requirements, correspondence, and applications.
- Organize your folders in a box, or cabinet (something that will keep file folders upright).
- Designate a calendar for noting important dates and deadlines relating to admissions, financial aid, scholarships, etc. Mark everything clearly.
- File copies of documents used to complete forms (such as driver's license, recent bank statements, latest federal tax forms, and W-2s).
- Keep copies of your student loan application(s), contact information, and correspondence relating to your lender.

Bottom line: If you think the document maybe important — file it.

- It's a good idea to purchase some supplies, too. Items that may be helpful: Colored markers, highlighters, self-stick notes in different colors,

TIP Keep copies of correspondence, applications, letters of recommendation ... basically everything you submit. Also, back up related computer files.

envelopes, return address labels, "thank you" notes, and stamps. These items may come in handy when you start applying.

Director of Admissions
USA University
Collegetown, USA 12345-1234

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am entering my senior year at ABC High School in Anytown, Virginia and will graduate in May 2012.

Please send me an application, current catalog, and any other descriptive materials which will be helpful in planning and paying for my education after high school.

I would appreciate receiving information and applications for general scholarships and financial aid as well. I am also interested in special scholarships or grants available to students planning to study _____.

Please let me know if a representative of USA University will be visiting my area in the near future, as I would be very interested in speaking with them about your institution.

Sincerely,
Charles A. College, Jr.

Choose Your Career

The first step in deciding what to do after high school is to talk with your school's guidance counselor and ask for advice. Ask your counselor about taking an aptitude test or interest inventory to determine your strengths, weaknesses, and interests to discover potential career options right for you.

Learn about yourself.

- Values: What is important to you?
- Interests: What appeals to you?
- Aptitude: What are you good at?

Talk to people.

Once you've narrowed your career choices, talk to people working in that field or, if possible, find a part-time or volunteer job in that field. Many sources of career and job outlook information are offered on the Internet.

Consider how much training is needed for careers that interest you.

- High school diploma: Cashier, receptionist, retail salesperson, security guard, waiter, waitress, etc.
- Special career training: Auto service technician, cosmetologist, police officer, truck driver, etc.
- College degree: Accountant, engineer, forensic science technician, graphic designer, nurse, pilot, teacher, public relations specialist, etc.
- Graduate degree: College professor, doctor, dentist, lawyer, veterinarian, architect, etc

Select Your School

It's important to carefully research schools that interest you. Understand their requirements, what majors are offered, and the cost to attend.

Start a folder for schools you are considering. The more information you collect, the more likely you'll choose the right school for you.

SEE Chapter 7: School Profiles offers important details on four-year schools in the U.S.

During your research, make note of conversations, interviews, and individuals you meet who might be a resource in the future. File copies of correspondence with the school, applications, and financial aid information. Attend college fairs and talk to college representatives.

Sources of school information:

Visit school websites and view a wealth of information about the school. Consider taking a virtual campus tour and complete the college application online.

College online catalogs contain detailed information about admissions, student life, degree requirements, academic programs, costs, deadlines, and student financial aid.

College student newspapers contain news coverage, editorials, campus activities, college issues, and student concerns.

College students or recent grads in your area can be a great resource. Often, the admissions office can help you get in touch with these individuals.

TYPES OF SCHOOLS

Colleges offer four-year bachelor of arts (BA) or bachelor of science (BS) degrees. Some also offer a two-year associate of arts (AA) degree. Colleges can be specialized (for example, in nursing) or can offer a broad curriculum, like liberal arts which focus on the humanities and sciences. College class size tends to be smaller than those of universities. This may provide more personal attention and better access to the faculty.

Universities can be quite large and usually include a liberal arts college, some professional colleges, and graduate programs. Meaning they may offer two-year and four-year degrees as well as graduate degrees in advanced studies beyond four years. Universities offer a vast course selection and may have extensive resources. Class size varies, depending on the size of the university, the subject area, and the course level. University professors may be involved in research projects. Graduate students, rather than professors may teach some classes.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR YEAR TIMELINE

September
- Register to take the SAT, ACT, SAT subject tests. If you have difficulty paying the registration fee, contact your guidance counselor for a fee waiver.
- Schedule a time to meet with your high school guidance counselor. Counselors are a great resource to help with your college planning.
- Contact the admissions office of schools that interest you.
- Look for private scholarships sponsored by community organizations, school and civic scholarships, government grants, government-assisted loans, work-study programs.

October & November
- Attend college fairs to meet school reps and ask questions.
- Return your admissions applications.
- Choose individuals to write your letters of recommendation. Be considerate and give them plenty of time.
- Begin completing applications and working on essays.
- Arrange campus visits.
- Narrow college list to only your top choices; then request financial aid information from these schools.
- Run free scholarship searches via the Web.

December & January
- Contact school financial aid offices regarding their deadlines.
- Collect family tax information.
- Submit the FAFSA as soon after January 1 as possible.
- Continue to search for scholarships.

February & March
- Stay on top of financial aid and college deadlines.
- Promptly respond to requests from college admissions and financial aid offices.

April & May
- Finalize your college decision.
- Notify financial aid offices where you've applied about your decision.
- Promptly respond to all requests from the college admissions or financial aid offices.

June – August
- Get a summer job and save money for school.
- Apply for student loans, if necessary.
- Verify that your high school transcripts have been sent.
- Complete final documents received from your college.
- Attend orientation.
- Make a list and start packing for college.
- Take care of final details (travel arrangements, checking accounts, cell phone calling plans, renter's insurance, etc).

Your calendar may differ depending on the type of education pursued.

Questions to Ask Admissions

Does the school offer the courses/majors I want?
Do I meet the admissions requirements?
Does the school offer quality education at a reasonable price?
Are scholarships offered by the school?
Is federal student aid available at the school?
Does the school offer special services I might need?
What measures are taken to ensure campus safety?
Does the school offer extracurricular activities that interest me?
Is housing available on- and off-campus?
What is the student loan default rate?
How many graduates go on to successful careers?
What is the graduation rate?

Colleges and universities can be classified as either public or private.

- Public: Being tax-supported, these schools are usually less expensive. As a general rule, students seldom pay more than 30% of the actual cost of their education with the state paying the balance. Also, public colleges have two fee structures:
  - Lower fees for tax-paying state residents
  - Higher fees nonresidents
- Private: Often these colleges are more innovative in developing attractive college financing plans and tuition assistance programs. They are not tax-supported and provide their own funding, allowing flexibility to customize financial aid award packages.

TIP Many schools have limited institutional aid to distribute. Funds are awarded on a first-come, first-served basis. Apply early!

Community colleges offer two-year liberal arts programs or specific career training. After completing their studies, students receive a certificate or an associate degree. To save money, many students start their education at a community college then transfer to a four-year college or university to complete their education. Most community colleges have a very affordable price tag.

Vocational, technical, professional, and trade schools offer study programs to prepare students for specific careers and may last weeks, months, or years, depending on the career requirements. At these schools, students can receive a license, a certificate, or an associate degree.

Campus Visits

School visits are the best way to learn about a school. While you're on campus, talk to as many students as you can, attend classes, arrange an overnight stay in a dorm, pick up the course catalog and college newspapers, and remember to take pictures.

SEE Track Campus Visits checklist on page 1-18.

During your campus visit:

- Make notes to jog your memory at decision time.
- Take pictures and/or videos.
- Note your instincts. Pay attention to how you feel, especially your first impression.
- Ask questions about campus security.
- Drive through surrounding neighborhoods and get a feel for the community.

Bottom line: Is this where you want to live and attend school for the next two or four years?

TIP If you have a wacky email address that some might find questionable, change it or set up an account just for your school correspondence.

Apply to Schools

The first step is to submit the school's official admissions application. Read the application instructions carefully and include just the information the school requests on or before their deadline. Most schools offer their applications on their website.

SEE Track School Inquiries checklist on page 1-17.

The application may include a form for your high school guidance office to complete and mail along with a transcript of your courses, grades, and test scores. You may be required to take a standardized assessment test such as the SAT or ACT. If you've already taken these tests, just provide your scores. If you can't locate your test scores, contact your high school guidance counselor or go online.

Some schools may require letters of recommendation (from teachers, clergymen, members of the community, etc.), an essay, and/or a school interview. Keep copies of everything and make notes from the interview. Send documents by registered mail, with a return receipt requested. That way, you'll know your paperwork was received and when.

The school you select may require a deposit to reserve your spot. Once you've made your decision on which school to attend, notify the other schools immediately. This could free up an opening for another student.

SEE Track Admissions Progress checklist on page 1-19.

SOURCES OF STUDENT FINANCIAL AID

How to pay for college is without a doubt one of the most significant challenges facing families today. The search for financial aid to meet the rising cost of a college education will become a major concern for most families.

Check with each school on your list to learn which financial aid forms are required and note important deadlines. Financial aid can come from a variety of sources. The most notable sources of funding are:

- Federal government
- State governments
- Colleges and universities
- Private sources
- Military resources

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The federal student aid programs are the largest source of student aid in America. If you are interested in financial aid for college or a career school, these programs provide more than $150 billion a year in grants, loans, and work-study assistance. Federal student financial aid means:

- Grants (you do not pay back)
- Loans (you do pay back)
- Work-study (you earn and do not pay back)

This aid can help pay for most types of education after high school. It's available if you attend a college, professional, vocational, or technical school. Programs include both need-based and non-need-based aid. Many of these federal programs are administered through colleges.

Here are the largest, most popular federal student aid programs:

- Federal Pell Grants
- Federal Stafford Loans
- PLUS Loans (for parents and graduate students)
- FSEOG
- Federal Perkins Loans
- Federal Work-Study

SEE Chapter 2: Federal Sources offers additional information about federal programs.

STATE GOVERNMENTS

States generally allocate portions of their budgets for public colleges and universities. This support lowers tuition for students attending these schools. Some states also offer financial assistance directly to students, which can be need-based or merit-based. Eligibility is usually restricted to state residents or students attending state institutions. Contact your guidance counselor to find out what's available.

SEE Chapter 3: State Sources offers additional information about state programs.

COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES

Colleges often offer their own scholarship, grant, and loan programs to supplement federal and state aid. Most of this "institutional aid" is scholarships or grants. Some is need-based and some merit-based. Higher cost private colleges are more likely to have additional financial aid available. Contact the college financial aid office to learn which programs are offered.

Private Sources

Organizations, such as corporations, labor unions, professional associations, religious affiliations, and credit unions may award financial aid. Learn about the availability of such scholarships by contacting someone at the organization or contacting its main headquarters.

Many companies offer loans or educational allowances to employees and their families (check with the Human Resource department). Financial organizations offer various loan products to pay for college (such as banks and savings and loan associations).

SEE Chapter 6: Private Sources offers details funding offered by private organizations.

Military Sources

Military student aid, such as the Montgomery GI Bill, is a popular reason many enlist in the armed forces. There are numerous funding and program opportunities available for students entering the military, veterans who have completed their service, and children and spouses of veterans.

SEE Chapter 5: Military Sources provides funding and programs offered to individuals interested in military service, active and retired military, and their families.

Qualify for Federal Student Aid

Student Eligibility

Eligibility for federal student financial aid (SFA) is determined based on financial need and several other factors. Basically to receive federal SFA, you must:

- Have a high school diploma or its equivalent, receive a passing score on an independently administered examination approved by the U.S. Department of Education (ED), or have been home schooled and either 1) Have a secondary school completion credential for home schools as provided for under state law, or 2) If the state does not require the credential described above, have completed a secondary school education in a home-school setting that qualifies as an exemption from the compulsory attendance requirements under state law;
- Enroll as a regular student in an eligible degree or certificate program;
- Be a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen;
- Have a valid Social Security number (with the exception of students from the Republic of the Marshall Islands, Federated States of Micronesia, or the Republic of Palau);
- Make satisfactory academic progress while attending classes;
- Sign a statement on the FAFSA agreeing to use the federal student aid funds only for educational expenses;
- Be enrolled at least half time to be eligible for Direct Loan Program funds; and
- Be enrolled full time to be eligible for an Academic Competitiveness Grant or a National Science.

When you apply for aid, the U.S. Department of Education may verify your information with these federal agencies:

- Social Security Administration (verifies Social Security numbers and U.S. citizenship status).
- Selective Service System (verifies Selective Service registration status, if applicable).
- Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Service (BCIS) formerly Immigration and Naturalization Services (INS) (verifies eligible noncitizen status, if applicable).

- U.S. Department of Justice (verifies that an applicant has not been denied federal student aid by the courts as the result of a drug-related conviction).
- U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (verifies veteran status, if applicable).

DEPENDENCY STATUS

Most students entering college or a career school straight from high school are considered dependent. Dependent students will report their and their parents' financial information on the FAFSA. This information will be used to determine eligibility for student financial aid.

Independent students report only their financial information (and spouse's, if married).

In special or unusual circumstances, a school's financial aid administrator (FAA) may determine that an otherwise dependent student should be considered independent. A parent's refusal to provide financial assistance or the required FAFSA information is not a valid reason for such a determination.

COST OF ATTENDANCE (COA)

COA, the total cost to attend a school, usually expressed as a yearly figure is the sum of:

- Cost of books and supplies
- Tuition and fees
- Cost of room and board (or living expenses for students who do not contract with the school for room and board)
- Allowance for travel
- Allowance for miscellaneous expenses

Costs unrelated to completion of a student's course of study are excluded in calculating a student's COA. For students attending less-than-half-time, the COA does not include room and board.

If you have any unusual expenses or circumstances (e.g., parent job loss, high medical bills, etc.) that might affect your COA, talk to the FAA at the school you're planning to attend. Your FAA may adjust your COA, if they believe your special circumstance warrants it based on documentation you provide. Keep in mind, the FAA is not required to make such an adjustment.

TIP You must be accepted at a college or university before it can offer you financial aid.

APPLY FOR STUDENT FINANCIAL AID

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is your starting point for applying to most student financial assistance programs. Many states and schools also use the FAFSA as part of their application process to award student financial aid.

TIP Applying for federal student aid is FREE. Everyone should complete the FAFSA!

The FAFSA is a comprehensive form. Be prepared to provide extensive information about your family's income and income tax return from the previous year, assets, family size, number of family members attending college, and more.

Don't shy away from submitting your FAFSA — it's not as overwhelming as it sounds. And could reward you with money to help pay for your college education!

Once you have been accepted by a college, the FAA will review the information from your FAFSA to determine your eligibility for financial aid and send you a financial aid award letter. This letter will list the amounts and types of aid you are eligible to receive for one academic year. The aid listed in the award letter could include scholarships, grants, student loans, and work-study.

FAFSA4CASTER

By using FAFSA4caster, you and your family can receive an early estimate of your eligibility for federal student aid.

When you're ready to apply for aid, much of the information you entered in the FAFSA4caster will populate your FAFSA on the Web application, making the experience of applying for federal student aid easier.

http://www.fafsa4caster.ed.gov/index.htm

REQUEST A PIN

Visit pin.ed.gov to obtain your PIN. This is an electronic access code number that serves as your personal identifier. Your PIN allows you to:

- Apply online using FAFSA on the Web.

- "Sign" your application electronically and complete the student aid process entirely online.
- If you're a dependent student and one of your parents has a PIN, they can sign the application electronically online.
- Make online corrections to your FAFSA.
- Access your Student Aid Report (SAR) and make online corrections.
- "Sign" a master promissory note for a federal student loan.

TIP You and your parent must each request a PIN. You may not share a PIN.

Complete the FAFSA

To determine your eligibility for federal student financial assistance, you must complete the FAFSA. Although you may be required to complete an additional application to be considered for financial aid from your state or the school you're interested in attending, most states and schools use FAFSA information to award nonfederal student aid.

Applying online is faster and easier than the paper FAFSA. You can download a FAFSA on the Web worksheet at fafsa.ed.gov, call 1-800-4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243), or turn to page 1-13. The FAFSA on the Web worksheet is also available in Spanish.

SEE The U.S. Department of Education's official FAFSA on the Web Worksheet can be found on page 1-13.

Apply Online

The benefits of applying via FAFSA on the Web:

- FAFSA on the Web identifies potential errors immediately and prompts you to make on-the-spot corrections.
- Online instructions are offered for each question, and you can access free live online help with a customer service representative, if you have additional questions.
- Once you submit your application, your information goes immediately into the U.S. Department of Education's Central Processing System (CPS). You'll receive a confirmation notice after clicking "Submit My FAFSA Now."
- The CPS will process your application quickly, usually in three to five days, if you (and your parents, if applicable) provided electronic signatures using the PIN.

Paper FAFSA

You could submit a paper version of the FAFSA, if you choose not to go online. You can request a paper FAFSA (in English or Spanish) by calling 1-800-4-FED-AID (1-800-433-3243).

After Submitting the FAFSA

Whether you applied online or by paper, the Department of Education will automatically send your data electronically to the schools you listed on your FAFSA for free. You'll receive the results of your FAFSA via a Student Aid Report (SAR). If you filed:

- Using FAFSA on the Web: You will receive your results by email within a few days after your FAFSA has been submitted, if you provided an email address when you applied. This email will contain a secure link so you can access your SAR online.
- A paper FAFSA: You will receive a paper SAR by mail in a few weeks.

Review your SAR carefully to make sure your information is correct and complete. If it is, and if it contains your official EFC, the school(s) you've selected to receive your SAR will use this information to determine your eligibility for federal — and possibly nonfederal — student financial aid.

TIP Your cost of attendance at each college may vary, but your EFC will not change.

Expected Family Contribution (EFC)

Your EFC:

- Reflects the amount your family will be expected to contribute toward the annual cost of any school you plan to attend.
- Helps determine your family's eligibility for any federal financial aid.

Your EFC is determined by several factors such as the size of your family, how many family members are in college, and your family's income and savings.

SELECTED FOR VERIFICATION?

No worries. Save your records and materials used in completing the FAFSA as you may need to prove the information you reported is correct. This process is known as verification.

The U.S. Department of Education uses verification to ensure the information families report is accurate. This ensures that eligible students receive all the aid they qualify for and prevents ineligible students from receiving aid by reporting false information.

At least 30% of FAFSA applications are selected for verification. Some randomly, some are flagged for errors. Also note that some schools prefer to verify all FAFSA applications.

FINANCIAL AID ADMINISTRATOR (FAA)

The FAA makes the final decision regarding how much a family must contribute to school costs, how much aid the school has to offer, and what type of aid the family will receive.

Your FAA may adjust your COA or the information used to calculate your EFC to take into account special circumstances that might affect the amount your family is expected to pay toward your education.

These circumstances could include a family's unusually high medical or dental expenses, loss of a job, or tuition expenses for children attending a private elementary or secondary school. If conditions such as these apply to you, contact your FAA. Very good reasons must exist for the FAA to make an adjustment, and you must provide adequate proof to support those adjustments.

COMPARE AWARD LETTERS

Along with the acceptance letter, schools will send a financial aid award letter or award package. The term "package" is used to show the school's determination of the amount and type of aid you could receive.

SEE Compare Financial Aid Award Letters checklist on page 1-21.

The package can contain one or more of the following types of aid:

- Grants from the school, federal, or state government that do not have to be repaid.
- Scholarships that do not have to be repaid.
- Student loans that must be paid back with interest.
- Part-time employment that pays students a wage for performing a job on- or off-campus.

AWARD PACKAGE COMPARISON

This chart compares two aid packages showing how different aid packages can make even a high-cost school affordable.

	College A	College B
School Costs	$ 9,000	$ 19,000
Expected Family Contribution (EFC)	1,400	1,400
NEED	$ 7,600	$ 17,600

In some cases, you can negotiate your financial aid package. FAAs are there to help, so be honest when explaining your situation and have valid reasons why you need a better package. Once you finish negotiating your award package, remember to send the school your signed award letter.

RECEIVE FUNDING

Student aid will be paid to you by the school by the semester, quarter, or other payment period. Typically, the school will first use the aid to pay any tuition and fee charges (and room and board, if provided by the school).

The remainder will be paid to you for other living expenses. Aid funds may not be credited for books, supplies, or other school charges unless you have authorized this in writing.

Need-Based vs. Non-Need-Based Aid

Need is the difference between the student's cost to attend a school and how much their family is expected to pay.

Apply for Scholarships!!

Scholarships are the one of the best ways to pay for college as they don't need to be repaid (hence known as "free money"). There are thousands and thousands of them, offered by the government, schools, employers, individuals, private companies, nonprofits, religious groups, professional and social organizations.

Some scholarships are merit based. You earn them by meeting or exceeding certain standards set by the scholarship provider. They might be awarded based on academic achievement, or a combination of academics and a special talent, trait, or interest. Other scholarships are based on financial need.

Begin your search early (start in late summer/early fall, one year before you need the money). The effort spent on this research will be well worth it.

TIP Remember to apply for scholarships every year you plan to continue your education!

Tips for getting the best scholarship results:

1. Review the scholarship requirements carefully and select only the scholarships you could qualify for.
2. Designate a calendar to track your scholarship application requests and deadlines.
3. Send letters or emails to request application information to sponsoring agencies.
4. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope to expedite your request — don't send a postcard.

SEE Need A Lift? lists hundreds of scholarships, fee waivers, grants, student loans, and educational opportunities.

5. If you do not hear from the sponsor regarding your request, send another request. Be polite; you aren't the only one requesting an application.
6. Create a file for each scholarship you apply for. Keep copies of all correspondence and applications.
7. Observe application deadlines and apply early! Late applications are usually discarded.

SEE Track Scholarship Requests checklist on page 1-20.

8. Comply with all application requirements, including essays, transcripts, references, photos, etc.
9. Neatness, correct spelling, writing skills, and proper grammar often influence decisions. Proofread, proofread, proofread before sending!
10. Be honest about your grades, experience, memberships, qualifications, and family's finances.
11. Send a "thank you" note even if you don't win the scholarship — remember there's always next year.

Understand Student Loans

If student loans are listed on the award letter you accepted, it's your responsibility to apply for them. Also, if your family doesn't have enough money to cover your EFC, a student loan could cover that expense as well.

Federal Student Loans

If you don't receive enough scholarships or grants to cover your costs, don't give up. The federal government and nearly every college or vocational school has student loan funds available. Many private organizations also offer loans. Most loans provide for repayment following your graduation.

Direct Loans are low-interest loans for students and parents to help pay for the cost of a student's education after high school. The lender is the U.S. Department of Education rather than a bank or other financial institution.

SEE Chapter 2: Federal Sources offers additional information about federal student loan programs.

PRIVATE LOANS

Private loans are designed to supplement federal loan programs and are available from schools, banks, and education loan organizations. Other possible loan sources include home equity loans, lines of credit, and retirement plans. Also, under current tax laws, interest paid on some home equity loans may be deductible.

TIP Parents! You could borrow from your retirement plan to pay for your child's education; however, you can't borrow for your retirement.

Be conservative. If you must borrow, accept only what is necessary to cover your college costs (tuition and fees, housing, meals, books, personal expenses, and transportation). When it's time to repay, you'll have other financial obligations — such as living expenses, rent, and/or car payments.

TIP Students! Borrow only what you absolutely need to cover your education costs because you'll be required to pay the loan back with interest.

CHOOSE A PRIVATE LENDER

Choose your lender carefully; the lender you choose today may be with you for the next ten years or more.

Managing your loans is easier if you have one lender:

- One bill with all your loan payments compiled.
- One place to send your payments.
- One lender to update.
- One source for customer assistance.

In addition to consulting your school's preferred lender list, what else should you consider when selecting a lender? Compare, compare, compare!

- Compare interest rates and terms.
- Compare borrower benefits, include those for paying on time and making loan payments electronically.
- Compare repayment options.
- Compare the loan application processes.
- Compare levels of customer service.
- Ability to access and update your account online.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How do I apply for student financial aid?

- Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and provide the required signatures.
- The U.S. Department Education will process your FAFSA in three to five days and send you a personalized Student Aid Report (SAR).
- Your SAR will summarize the data you reported on the FAFSA. Review the information on the SAR carefully to confirm accuracy.
- If your FAFSA information is complete, an Expected Family Contribution (EFC) will be printed in the upper-right corner. Your EFC is based on the financial information you provided on the FAFSA.
- Schools where you've been accepted will use your EFC to determine how much financial aid to offer and send you an award letter.

Is using FAFSA on the Web really faster?

Yes. Your electronic application is processed in three to five days, compared to two to four weeks with the paper FAFSA. FAFSA on the Web error-checks your application as you answer the questions, ensuring the data you transmit to the U.S. Department of Education is ready for processing.

I probably don't qualify for aid; should I apply anyway?

Yes. Submitting the FAFSA is free. Many families falsely believe they don't qualify for student aid and don't submit the FAFSA, hence they miss out on available funding.

How do I apply for a Federal Pell Grant and other federal and state need-based aid?

Submit the FAFSA. For student employment, student loans, and parent loans, check the appropriate boxes on the FAFSA.

Must I be accepted before I can apply for financial aid at a particular university?

No. You can apply for financial aid any time after January 1. However, to receive the funds, you must be accepted and enrolled at the school.

Do all schools offer federal financial aid?

No. Schools must be accredited by an agency recognized by the U.S. Department of Education and be eligible to participate in federal student aid programs. Call 1-800-4-FED-AID to find out if a particular school is eligible.

I submitted two FAFSAs for the same year. What will happen?

The U.S. Department of Education will use only the first application received. Subsequent applications for that calendar year will be deleted.

Do I really need to make campus visits? Isn't watching a school's video just like being there?

No. There's no substitute for seeing and experiencing things firsthand. Plan your visit so you can be there when classes are in session. Take the campus tour and ask questions. Talk to students and get a feel for the campus atmosphere before making a commitment.

Must I repay my student loan, if I don't complete my education or I'm not satisfied with it?

Yes. Failing to repay your loan will place your account in default. Being in default is serious. It can damage your credit rating for years and stand in your way of renting an apartment or purchasing a car.

Are my parents responsible for my student loans?

No. Parents are responsible for your educational loans, if they co-signed your loan. Parents are responsible for Parent PLUS Loans, if they have one.

In the FAFSA, why must I report the highest school level my parents completed?

Some states and schools offer funding for students who are first-generation college students. It's also used for statistical purposes.

Can my parent and I share a PIN?

No. Students and parents must each have their own PIN. If you or your parents don't have a PIN, have lost or forgotten your PIN, or think someone else knows your PIN, request a new one at www.pin.ed.gov.

Must I reapply for financial aid every year I attend school?

Yes. You must reapply for aid every year you plan to attend college, but it is simpler and less confusing the second time around. If your financial circumstances change, you may get more or less aid. After your first year you will receive a Renewal FAFSA which contains preprinted information from the previous year's FAFSA.

Could I lose my financial aid benefits, if I don't register with the Selective Service?

Yes. If you are a male between the ages of 18–25, you must register with Selective Service.

I submitted my FAFSA over six weeks ago, but I haven't heard anything. What should I do?

If you haven't received a Student Aid Report (SAR), call the processor at 319-337-5665. You must provide your Social Security number and birth date as verification.

Is there a difference between my "official" and "estimated" EFC?

Yes. There are various forms and calculators on the Web available to compute your "estimated" EFC. Only your Student Aid Report (SAR) provides the "official" EFC number used as the baseline for determining your financial need.

DO NOT MAIL THIS WORKSHEET.

The FAFSA on the Web Worksheet provides a preview of the questions that you will be asked when you apply for the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You can complete the FAFSA online at www.fafsa.gov.

You must complete and submit a FAFSA to apply for federal student aid and for most state and college aid. Write down notes to help you easily complete your FAFSA after January 1, 2011.

See the table to the right for state deadlines. Your application must be submitted and processed by the state deadline. Also pay attention to the symbols that may be listed after your state deadline. The federal deadline is June 30, 2012.

- This Worksheet is optional and should only be completed if you plan to use FAFSA on the Web.
- Sections in purple are for parent information.
- This Worksheet does not include all the questions from the FAFSA. The questions that are included are ordered as they appear on FAFSA on the Web. When you are online you may be able to skip some questions based on your answers to earlier questions.

Applying is easier with the new IRS Data Retrieval Tool.

Eligible students and parents who have completed their 2010 IRS tax returns will be able to use FAFSA on the Web to electronically view their tax information. With just a few simple steps, the tax information will automatically be transferred into the FAFSA.

Sign your FAFSA with a Federal Student Aid PIN.

If you do not have a PIN, you can apply for one at www.pin.ed.gov. Your PIN allows you to electronically sign your FAFSA. If you are providing parent information for dependent students, your parent should also sign your FAFSA. To sign electronically, your parent should also apply for a PIN.

Free help is available.

You do not have to pay to get help or submit your FAFSA. Submit your FAFSA for free online at www.fafsa.gov. Federal Student Aid provides free help online at www.fafsa.gov or you can call 1-800-4-FED-AID. TTY users hearing-impaired call 1-800-730-8913.

SECTION B • PARENT INFORMATION

Who is considered a parent? Parent refers to a biological or adoptive parent. Grandparents, foster parents, legal guardians, older siblings and aunts or uncles are not considered parents for this purpose unless they have legally adopted you. In case of divorce or separation, give information for the parent you lived with the most during the past 12 months. If you did not live with one parent more than the other, give information for the parent who provided you the most financial support during the past 12 months or during the most recent year you received support. If your divorced or widowed parent has remarried, also provide information for that stepparent.

Providing your father's information. You will need:

Father's/Stepfather's Social Security Number

Father's/Stepfather's name

Father's/Stepfather's date of birth

❑ If the parent is deceased or the father/stepfather is a disabled veteran

Providing your mother's information. You will need:

Mother's/Step-mother's Social Security Number

Mother's/Step-mother's name

Mother's/Step-mother's date of birth

❑ If the parent is deceased or the mother/step-mother is a disabled veteran

Did your parents file or will they file a 2012 income tax return?

❑ Parents have already filed their 2012 tax return

❑ Parents will file and have not yet filed their 2012 tax return

❑ Parents are not required to file a 2012 tax return

Your parents will need their tax returns and/or W-2 forms to complete the FAFSA.

What was your parents' adjusted gross income for 2012?

Skip this question if your parents did not file a tax return. Adjusted gross income (AGI) on IRS Form 1040, Line 36; Form 1040A, Line 20; or Form 1040EZ, Line 4. $ _____

The following questions ask about earned income (wages, salaries, tips, etc.). Answer the questions whether or not a tax return was filed. This information can be found on the W-2 form, IRS Form 1040, Line 7; Form 1040A, Line 7; Form 1040EZ, Line 1; or Form 1040, Schedule K-1, Box 20, Code A.

How much did your father/stepfather earn from working in 2012? $ _____

How much did your mother/stepmother earn from working in 2012? $ _____

In 2011 or 2012, did anyone in your parents' household receive:

❑ Supplemental Security Income

❑ Food Stamps

❑ Free or Reduced Price School Lunch

❑ Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)

❑ Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC)

Note: Food Stamps and/or TANF may have a different entry in each state. Answer NO to this question if you are not sure of the name of the state's program.

Did your parents have any of the following items in 2012?

Check the one that applies. Only include amounts that were required to be reported to the IRS.

Additional Financial Information

❑ American Opportunity or Hope or Lifetime Learning credits

❑ Child support paid

❑ Taxable earned income from work-study assistantships or fellowships

❑ Taxable grant and scholarship aid reported to the IRS

❑ Combat pay or special combat pay

❑ Cooperative education program earnings

Untaxed Income

❑ Payments to tax-deferred pension and savings plans

❑ Child support received

❑ IRA deductions and payments to self-employed SEP, SIMPLE and Keogh

❑ Tax-exempt interest income

❑ Untaxed portions of IRA distributions

❑ Untaxed portions of pensions distributions

❑ Housing, food and other living allowances paid to members of the military or clergy and others

❑ Veterans' noneducation benefits

❑ Other untaxed income not reported (such as workers' compensation or disability income)

Your parents may be asked to provide more information about their assets.
Your parents may need to report the net worth of their current businesses and/or investment farms.

- TIP

SECTION — STUDENT INFORMATION

Did you file or will you file a 2020 income tax return?

- ❑ I have already completed my 2020 tax return
- ❑ I will file but I have not completed my 2020 tax return
- ❑ I do not plan to file a 2020 tax return

You will need your tax returns and/or W-2 forms to complete the FAFSA.

What was your and spouse's (if married) adjusted gross income for 2020?

Skip this question if you or your spouse did not file a tax return. Adjusted gross income is on IRS Form 1040–1040A Line 8 or 1040–1040EZ Line 4.

How much did you earn from working in 2020?

- ❑ Check here if you are a dislocated worker

How much did your spouse earn from working in 2020?

- ❑ Check here if your spouse is a dislocated worker

In 2019 or 2020 did anyone in your household receive?

- ❑ Supplemental Security Income
- ❑ Food Stamps
- ❑ Free or Reduced Price School Lunch
- ❑ Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)
- ❑ Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC)

Note: Food Stamps and/or TANF may have a different name in your state. Ask your FAFSA College to find out the name of the state's program.

Did you or your spouse have any of the following items in 2020?
Check that apply. Only those items that you were asked to report and record.

Additional Financial Information

- ❑ American Opportunity Hope or Lifetime Learning tax credits
- ❑ Child support paid
- ❑ Taxable earned income from work-study, graduate assistantships or fellowships
- ❑ Taxable grant and scholarship aid reported to the IRS
- ❑ Combat pay or special combat pay
- ❑ Cooperative education program earnings

Untaxed Income

- ❑ Payments to tax-deferred pension and savings plans
- ❑ Child support received
- ❑ IRA deductions and payments to self-employed SEP, SIMPLE and Keogh
- ❑ Tax exempt interest income
- ❑ Untaxed portions of IRA distributions
- ❑ Untaxed portions of pensions distributions
- ❑ Housing, food and other living allowances paid to members of the military or clergy and others
- ❑ Veterans noneducation benefits
- ❑ Other untaxed income not reported (such as workers compensation or disability)
- ❑ Money received or paid on your behalf

You may be asked to provide more information about your and your spouse's assets.
You may need to report the net worth of current businesses and/or investment farms.

- TIPS

Do not mail this Worksheet. Go to www.fafsa.gov to complete and submit your application.

Chapter 2

Federal Education Sources

This chapter discusses postsecondary education assistance programs offered by various federal agencies. Programs such as grants, work-study, student loans, loan forgiveness, tax benefits, and education IRAs.

Keep in mind, this listing is only a sampling of federal opportunities. Contact your school's financial aid office for additional information.

Remember the following as you read this section.

- Grants: You do not pay back.
- Work-Study: Money you earn to cover school costs.
- Loans: You do pay back.
- Loan forgiveness: Partial or full loans are cancelled.
- Tax benefits: Tax credits and deductions for tax payers.

Grants

Federal Pell Grant Program

Usually, Pell Grants are awarded only to undergraduate students who have not earned a bachelor's or professional degree. (In some cases; however, a student enrolled in a post-baccalaureate teacher certification program may receive a Pell.) Pell Grants are considered a foundation of federal financial aid to which aid from other federal and nonfederal sources may be added.

Eligibility for a Pell Grant is determined by the financial information provided on the Free Application For Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

The maximum award for the 2011–12 award year (July 1, 2011–June 30, 2012) is $5,550. The amount you receive will depend not only on your financial need, but also on your costs to attend school, your status as a full-time or part-time student, and your plans to attend school for a full academic year or less.

Your school can apply Pell Grant funds to your school costs, pay you directly (usually by check), or combine these methods. The school must inform you in writing how much your award will be and how and when you'll be paid. Schools must disburse funds at least once per term. Schools that do not use semesters, trimesters, or quarters must disburse funds at least twice per academic year.

Children of Soldiers

Provides maximum Federal Pell Grant eligibility for a student whose parent or guardian was a member of the Armed Forces and died as a result of performing military service in Iraq or Afghanistan after 9/11/2001, provided that the child was under 24 years old or was enrolled in college at the time of the parent or guardian's death. These students will be considered to be eligible for the maximum Federal Pell Grant award for the period during which the student is otherwise eligible to receive a Federal Pell Grant.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) Program

FSEOGs are available for undergraduates with "exceptional" financial need. Pell Grant recipients with the lowest EFCs are the first to get FSEOGs. Just like Pell Grants, FSEOGs don't have to be repaid.

You can receive between $100–$4,000 a year, depending on when you apply, your financial need, available funding at the school you're attending, and policies of the financial aid office at your school.

If you're eligible, your school will credit your account, pay you directly (usually by check), or combine these methods. Your school must pay you at least once per term (semester, trimester, or quarter). Schools that do not use semesters, trimesters, or quarters must disburse funds at least twice per academic year.

IRAQ AND AFGHANISTAN SERVICE GRANT

Students whose parent or guardian was a member of the U.S. Armed Forces and died as a result of service performed in Iraq or Afghanistan after September 11, 2001 may be eligible to receive the Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grant.

Additional Student Eligibility Requirements:

- Must be ineligible for a Federal Pell Grant due only to having less financial need than is required to receive Pell funds, and
- Be under 24 years old, or
- Enrolled in college at least part-time at the time of the parent's or guardian's death.

The grant award is equal to the amount of a maximum Pell Grant for the award year — not to exceed the cost of attendance for that award year.

TEACHER EDUCATION ASSISTANCE FOR COLLEGE AND HIGHER EDUCATION (TEACH) GRANT

The TEACH Grant program provides grants up to $4,000 per year to students who intend to teach in a public or private elementary or secondary school that serves students from low-income families.

Recipients of a TEACH Grant, must teach for at least four academic years within eight calendar years of completing the program of study for which receiving a TEACH Grant.

If the recipient fails to complete this service obligation, all amounts of TEACH Grants received will be converted to a Federal Direct Unsubsidized Stafford Loan. This loan is repaid to the U.S. Department of Education. Interest will be charged from the date the grant(s) was disbursed.

Details: http://studentaid.ed.gov

FEDERAL WORK-STUDY (FWS) PROGRAM

FWS offers part-time jobs for undergraduate and graduate students with financial need, allowing them to earn money to help pay education expenses. The program encourages community service work and work related to the recipient's course of study.

Undergraduate students are paid by the hour. No FWS student may be paid by commission or fee. Your school must pay you directly (unless you direct otherwise) and at least monthly. Wages for the program must at least equal the current federal minimum wage but may be higher, depending on the type of work performed and skills required. Currently, the federal minimum wage is $7.25 per hour. The amount you earn can't exceed your total FWS award. When assigning work hours, your employer or financial aid administrator will consider your award amount, your class schedule, and your academic progress.

If you work on campus, you'll usually work for your school. If you work off campus, your employer will usually be a private nonprofit organization or a public agency, and the work performed must be in the public interest.

Your school might have agreements with private for-profit employers for FWS jobs. This type of job must be relevant to your course of study. If you attend a career school, there may be further restrictions on jobs you can be assigned.

STUDENT LOANS

FEDERAL PERKINS LOAN PROGRAM

Perkins is a low-interest (5%) loan for undergraduate and graduate students with "exceptional" financial need. Perkins Loans are made through a school's financial aid office. You must complete the FAFSA to be eligible. Your school is your lender, and the loan is made with government funds. Your school will either pay you directly (usually by check) or apply your loan to your school charges. You'll receive the loan proceeds in at least two payments during the academic year. You must repay this loan to your school.

LOAN AMOUNT

You could borrow up to $5,500 for each year of undergraduate study. The amount you receive depends on when you apply, your financial need, and funding available at the school.

Repayment

If you're attending school at least half time, you have nine months after you graduate, leave school, or drop below half-time status before you begin repayment. This is called a "grace period." If you're attending less than half time, contact your school to determine the length of your grace period.

If you skip a payment, if it's late, or if you make less than a full payment, you may be required to pay a late fee plus any collection costs.

Federal Direct Stafford Loans

Direct Stafford Loans, from the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan (Direct Loan) Program, are low-interest loans for eligible students to help cover the cost of higher education at a four-year college or university, community college, or trade, career, or technical school. Eligible students borrow directly from the U.S. Department of Education (the Department) at participating schools.

As with all federal student aid, you must complete the FAFSA. Most students use FAFSA on the Web to complete their application. Schools use the information from your FAFSA to determine how much student aid you will receive. Stafford Loans are generally included as part of your award package, which may contain other types of aid to help meet the costs of going to college or career school.

There are two types of Stafford Loans:

- Direct Subsidized Loans are for students with financial need. Your school will review the results of your FAFSA and determine the amount you can borrow. You are not charged interest while you're in school at least half time, during grace periods, and deferment periods.
- Direct Unsubsidized Loans like subsidized loans, your school will determine the amount you can borrow. Students are not required to demonstrate financial need to receive a Direct Unsubsidized Loan. Interest accrues (accumulates) on an unsubsidized loan from the time it's first paid out. You can pay the interest while you are in school and during grace periods and deferment or forbearance periods, or you can allow it to accrue and be capitalized (that is, added to the principal amount of your loan). If you choose not to pay the interest as it accrues, this will increase the total amount you have to repay because you will be charged interest on a higher principal amount.

You can receive a subsidized loan and an unsubsidized loan for the same enrollment period as long as you don't exceed the annual loan limits.

NOTE	Before July 1, 2010, Stafford, PLUS, and Consolidation Loans were also offered by private lenders under the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program. Currently, Stafford, PLUS, and Consolidation Loans are only available from the U.S. Department of Education.

Loan Amount

For 2011–12, if you're a undergraduate student, yearly you could borrow up to:

Dependent Students

- Freshman = $5,500
  ($3,500 subsidized/$2,000 unsubsidized)
- Sophomore = $6,500
  ($4,500 subsidized/$2,000 unsubsidized)
- Junior/Senior = $7,500
  ($5,500 subsidized/$2,000 unsubsidized)

Independent Students

- Freshman = $9,500
  ($3,500 subsidized/$6,000 unsubsidized)
- Sophomore = $10,500
  ($4,500 subsidized/$6,000 unsubsidized)
- Junior/Senior = $12,500
  ($5,500 subsidized/$7,000 unsubsidized)
- Graduate or Professional = $20,500
  ($8,500 subsidized/$12,000 unsubsidized)

Interest Rates

For Stafford Loans first disbursed July 1, 2011–June 30, 2012: Subsidized 3.4% and unsubsidized 6.8%.

Fees

Loans first disbursed July 1, 2011–June 30, 2012 include a 1% loan fee.

Repayment

The Direct Loan Program offers several repayment plans designed to meet the different needs of individual borrowers. Generally, you'll have 10 to 25 years to repay your loan, depending on the repayment plan that you choose. You will receive more detailed information on your repayment options during required entrance and exit counseling sessions at your school.

Details: http://studentaid.ed.gov

FEDERAL PARENT PLUS LOANS

Parent PLUS is a low-interest, federally-funded loan for parents of undergraduate, dependent students enrolled in school at least half time. Parents may borrow up to the full cost of each student's education each academic year, minus grants and other financial aid received.

Parents do not have to prove financial need; however, a credit check is required. Parents who do not pass a credit check may still be eligible for a PLUS Loan with a creditworthy, co-signer.

INTEREST RATE

For 2011–12, the interest rate is fixed at 7.9%. Interest is charged from the date of the first disbursement until the loan is paid in full.

REPAYMENT

This program offers three repayment plans — standard, extended, and graduated — designed to meet the different needs of individual borrowers. The terms differ between the repayment programs, but generally borrowers will have 10 to 25 years to repay a loan.

Details: http://studentaid.ed.gov

INCOME BASED REPAYMENT (IBR)

IBR is a repayment plan for the major types of federal loans made to students. Under IBR, your required monthly payment is capped at an amount that is intended to be affordable based on your income and family size.

Any Stafford, Grad PLUS, or consolidation loan made under either the Direct Loan or FFEL program is eligible for repayment under IBR, except loans currently in default, Parent PLUS Loans, or consolidation loans that repaid a parent PLUS Loan. Loans can be new or old, and for any type of education (undergrad, grad, professional, or job training).

You may enter IBR, if your federal student loan debt is high relative to your income and family size. While your lender will perform the calculation to determine your eligibility, you can use the U.S. Department of Education's IBR calculator to estimate if you would likely benefit from the IBR plan. If that amount is lower than the monthly payment under a 10-year standard repayment plan, then you are eligible to repay your loans under IBR.

To apply for IBR, contact the lender or lenders who hold your student loans.

Details: http://studentaid.ed.gov

GRADUATE PLUS LOANS

Graduate or professional students are eligible to borrow under the Graduate PLUS Loan Program (also known as "Grad PLUS") up to their cost of attendance minus other estimated financial assistance in the Direct Loan Program.

Terms and conditions applicable to Parent PLUS Loans also apply to Graduate PLUS Loans. These requirements include a determination that the applicant does not have an adverse credit history, repayment begins on the date of the last disbursement of the loan, and a fixed interest rate of 7.9% for 2011–12.

Applicants must complete the FAFSA. Students must also have applied for their annual loan maximum eligibility under the Federal Subsidized and Unsubsidized Stafford Loan Program before applying for a Graduate PLUS Loan.

LOAN FORGIVENESS

Under certain circumstances, the federal government could cancel all or part of an educational loan. This is known as loan forgiveness. A brief listing of participating organizations follows. To qualify, you must:

- Perform military service;
- Perform volunteer work;
- Teach or practice medicine in certain communities; or
- Meet other criteria specified by a forgiveness program.

MILITARY

The U.S. Armed Forces could help you manage your college debt under the Student Loan Repayment Program (SLRP) for qualified students. When you enlist the Army could pay back up to $65,000 in qualified education loans (up to $20,000 for reservists), Navy up to $65,000, Air Force up to $10,000. Participants must score 50 or higher on the Armed Forces Qualifications Test (AFQT). SLRP must be requested at the time of enlistment or re-enlistment.

Details: Contact your military recruiter.

Volunteer Work

Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program

Creates a loan forgiveness option for borrowers who hold public service jobs. Borrowers who meet requirements may be eligible to have a portion of their Federal Direct Loan debt forgiven. Borrowers must have made 120 monthly payments after October 1, 2007. Therefore, the first cancellations of loan balances will not be granted until October 2017 at the earliest.

AmeriCorps

A network of local, state, and national service programs that connects more than 75,000 Americans each year in intensive service to meet our country's critical needs in education, public safety, health, and the environment.

Full-time members who complete their service earn a Segal AmeriCorps Education Award of $4,725 to pay for college, graduate school, or to pay back qualified student loans. Members who serve part time receive a partial award. Some AmeriCorps members may also receive a modest living allowance during their term of service.

Details: Call 800-942-2677, web: www.americorps.gov

Peace Corps

Serve, and 25% of your Perkins Loan could be forgiven. Other college loans could be deferred for the duration of Peace Corp service. Currently, over 8,000 Peace Corps volunteers are serving in 74 countries, working to bring clean water to communities, teach children, help start new small businesses, and stop the spread of AIDS. Since 1961, over 200,000 Americans have joined the Peace Corps, serving in 139 host countries.

Details: Call 800-424-8580, web: www.peacecorps.gov

Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA)

Dedicated to eliminating poverty by helping individuals and low-income neighborhoods make positive changes for themselves. Through AmeriCorps VISTA, ordinary people provide extraordinary service in more than 1,200 projects nationwide. Members serve full time for a year at a nonprofit organization or local government agency, working to fight illiteracy, improve health services, create businesses, strengthen community groups, and much more. Upon completing your service, you can choose to receive either an education award worth $4,725 to pay for college, or $1,200 in cash.

Teaching

National Defense Education Act (NDEA)

Federal legislation passed in 1958 providing aid to education in the U.S. at all levels, public and private. Students who become full-time teachers in an elementary or secondary school that serves students from low-income families could have a portion of their Federal Perkins Loan forgiven under this act. This program forgives 15% of the original loan amount for the first and second years of teaching service, 20% for the third and fourth, and 30% for the fifth.

Details: Contact guidance counselor for eligible schools.

Legal

Law School Loan Repayment Assistance Programs

Repayment assistance programs are perhaps the most important means to address educational debt burdens faced by law graduates wanting to do public interest work. These programs defray or, in some instances, fully cover the educational debt payments of graduates who go into qualifying public service.

Details: Equal Justice Works at 202-466-3686, web: www.equaljusticeworks.org.

Medical

National Health Service Corps Loan Repayment Program (LRP)

To be eligible for up to $60,000 in an initial loan repayment award Corps members are required to practice full time for at least two years or part time for four years at an NHSC-approved site. An award of $30,000 is available for two years of half-time service.

Approved sites are located across the country in Health Professional Shortage Areas (HPSAs).

Many types of health care facilities are NHSC-approved sites. About half of Corps members serve in federally-supported health centers. Other approved sites are rural and Indian Health Service clinics, public health department clinics, hospital-affiliated primary care practices, managed care networks, prisons, and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement sites.

TAX BENEFITS FOR EDUCATION

This section contains a brief overview of tax credits and deductions. Consult your tax advisor for guidance with your financial situation.

TIP

IRS PUBLICATION 970

For detailed information, request IRS Publication 970 Tax Benefits for Higher Education at 800-829-3676, download a PDF at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p970.pdf, or consult your tax advisor.

TAX CREDITS

Currently, there are two tax credits available to help offset the costs of higher education by reducing your income tax bill:

- American Opportunity Credit
- Lifetime Learning Credit

Note: The Hope Credit is no longer offered.

What is a tax credit? A credit is subtracted directly from your federal income tax on a dollar-for-dollar basis. This saves more money than a deduction, which you subtract from your income before you calculate your tax and which yields much less than dollar-for-dollar savings.

Who claims the credit? If someone claims a student as a dependent for tax purposes, that person not the student, may receive the tax credit, even if the student files a tax return. Otherwise, only the student may receive the credit.

Differences between the American opportunity and lifetime learning credits. There are several differences between these two credits. For example, you can claim the American Opportunity Credit based on the same student's expenses for no more than four tax years, which includes any tax years you claimed the Hope credit for that student. However, there is no limit on the number of years for which you can claim a lifetime learning credit based on the same student's expenses.

TIP A tax credit is better than a tax deduction.

AMERICAN OPPORTUNITY CREDIT

For the tax year, you may be able to claim an American opportunity credit of up to $2,500 for qualified education expenses paid for each eligible student. A tax credit reduces the amount of income tax you may have to pay. Unlike a deduction, which reduces the amount of income subject to tax, a credit directly reduces the tax itself. Forty percent of the American Opportunity Credit may be refundable. This means, if the refundable portion of your credit is more than your tax, the excess will be refunded to you.

Your allowable American Opportunity Credit may be limited by the amount of your income. Also, the nonrefundable part of the credit may be limited by the amount of your tax.Lifetime Learning Credit

The credit will equal 20% of these qualified expenses, with the maximum credit being $2,000. The amount of qualified education expenses you can take into account in figuring your Lifetime Learning Credit is $10,000.

How is the credit claimed? The college will send the student IRS Form 1098-T (Tuition Payments Statement) which reports the tuition and related expenses paid for the student.

STUDENT LOAN INTEREST DEDUCTION

Generally, personal interest you pay is not deductible on your tax return. However, if your modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) is less than $75,000 ($150,000 if filing a joint return) there is a special deduction allowed for paying interest on a student loan (also known as an education loan) used for higher education. Loan amount eligible for the deduction is limited to postsecondary expenses for tuition, room and board, fees, books, and equipment.

The student loan interest deduction is taken as an adjustment to income. This means you can claim this deduction even if you do not itemize deductions on Schedule A.

STUDENT LOAN INTEREST DEDUCTION SUMMARY

FEATURE	DESCRIPTION
Maximum benefit	You can reduce your income subject to tax by up to $2,500.
Loan qualifications	Your student loan: • Must have been taken out solely to pay qualified education expenses, and • Cannot be from a related person or made under a qualified employer plan.
Student qualifications	The student must be: • You, your spouse, or your dependent, and • Enrolled at least half-time in a degree program.
Time limit on deduction	You can deduct interest paid during the remaining period of your student loan.

TUITION & FEES DEDUCTION

The tuition and fees deduction can reduce the amount of your income subject to tax by up to $4,000. This deduction is taken as an adjustment to income. This means you can claim this deduction even if you do not itemize deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040). This deduction may be beneficial to you if you cannot take either the American Opportunity or Lifetime Learning Credit because your income is too high.

IRA WITHDRAWALS

Education exception to additional tax on early IRA distributions: Allows taxpayers to withdraw funds from an IRA, without penalty, for higher education expenses of the taxpayer, spouse, child, or grandchild. Amount that can be withdrawn without penalty is limited to net postsecondary expenses for tuition, room and board, fees, books, and equipment.

Taxpayers may withdraw funds from an IRA, without penalty, for their own higher education expenses or those of their spouse, child, or even grandchild. Usually, if you withdraw funds from an IRA before you're 59-1/2, you must pay an additional 10% tax on the withdrawal amount. This 10% tax is waived on a withdrawal used for qualified expenses of the student.

TUITION & FEES DEDUCTION SUMMARY

QUESTION	ANSWER
What is the maximum benefit?	You can reduce your income subject to tax by up to $4,000.
Where is the deduction taken?	As an adjustment to income on Form 1040 or Form 1040A.
For whom must the expenses be paid?	A student enrolled in an eligible educational institution who is either • you, • your spouse, or • your dependent for whom you claim an exemption.
What tuition and fees are deductible?	Tuition and fees required for enrollment or attendance at an eligible postsecondary educational institution, but not including personal, living, or family expenses, such as room and board.

COVERDELL EDUCATION SAVINGS ACCOUNT

In addition, for each child under age 18, families may deposit $2,000 per year into a Coverdell in the child's name. Earnings will accumulate tax-free. No taxes will be due upon withdrawal, if the money is used to pay for postsecondary tuition and required fees, books, equipment, and eligible room and board expenses. Once the child reaches age 30, the account must be closed or transferred to a younger member of the family.

A taxpayer's ability to contribute to a Coverdell account is phased out when the taxpayer is a joint filer with an adjusted gross income is less than $220,000, or a single filer with an adjusted gross income less than $110,000. Note that a student who receives a tax-free distribution from a Coverdell account can also benefit from the Lifetime Learning Credit in the same year.

Coverdell Summary

Question	Answer
What is a Coverdell ESA?	A savings account that is set up to pay the qualified education expenses of a designated beneficiary.
Where can it be established?	It can be opened in the U.S. at any bank or other IRS-approved entity that offers Coverdell ESAs.
Who can have a Coverdell ESA?	Any beneficiary who is under age 18 or is a special needs beneficiary.
Who can contribute to a Coverdell ESA?	Generally, any individual (including the beneficiary) whose modified adjusted gross income for the year is less than $110,000 ($220,000 in the case of a joint return).
Are distributions tax free?	Yes, if the distributions are not more than the beneficiary's adjusted qualified education expenses for the year.

Education Savings Bond Program

Generally, you must pay tax on the interest earned on U.S. savings bonds. If you do not include the interest in income in the years it is earned, you must include it in your income in the year in which you cash in the bonds. However, when you cash in certain savings bonds under an education savings bond program, you may be able to exclude the interest from income.

A qualified U.S. savings bond is a series EE bond issued after 1989 or a series I bond. The bond must be issued either in your name (as the sole owner) or in the name of both you and your spouse (as co-owners). The owner must be at least 24 years old before the bond's issue date.

Employer-Provided Educational Assistance

If you receive educational assistance benefits from your employer under an educational assistance program, you can exclude up to $5,250 of those benefits each year. This means your employer should not include the benefits with your wages, tips, and other compensation shown in box 1 of your Form W-2. This also means that you do not have to include the benefits on your income tax return.

Chapter 3

STATE EDUCATION SOURCES

This chapter lists student financial aid resources offered by state, residency requirements to qualify for in-state tuition, and links to higher education and veteran affairs agencies.

Federal funds are allocated to states to encourage the expansion of state scholarship and grant assistance to students. State governments also contribute sizeable sums to various types of aid programs ranging from tuition waivers to full scholarships for students residing in their state. States may also offer internships or work-study programs, graduate fellowships and grants, and low-interest loans.

IMPORTANT!

Contact agencies in your state for a complete listing of education resources.

ROBERT C. BYRD HONORS SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The Byrd Scholarship provides federally-funded grants to states for undergraduate study scholarships at institutions of higher education. The scholarships are awarded to outstanding high school graduates who show promise of continued excellence in an effort to recognize and promote excellence and achievement. Students attending a military academy are not eligible for a Byrd Scholarship.

Scholarship recipients are known as Byrd Scholars and receive up to $1,500 per academic year of study. Byrd Scholarship awards can be renewed for up to three additional years of academic study, provided funds are available and students remain eligible.

Eligible students must:

1. Be a graduate of a public or private secondary school or have received the recognized equivalent of a high school diploma (GED);
2. Be a legal resident of the state where they apply;
3. Be a U.S. citizen or national of the U.S. or have evidence from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service that they are a permanent resident or in the U.S. for other than a temporary purpose;
4. Have applied or been accepted for enrollment at an institution of higher education;
5. Certify that they are not ineligible to receive assistance as a result of default on a federal student loan or other obligation; and
6. File a Statement of Selective Service Registration Status with the school they plan to attend.

Application: Students request an application package from the state education agency (SEA) and carefully follow the application instructions. Application deadlines are set by the SEA.

LEVERAGING EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PARTNERSHIP (LEAP) PROGRAM

The LEAP Program assists states in providing grants or work-study to eligible students. Each state has its own award amounts and application procedures. Many of the eligibility criteria are established by the state agency administering the program, although LEAP recipients must also meet the same basic eligibility criteria that apply to other federal student aid recipients.

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION PROGRAMS

ED's Rehabilitation Services Administration (RSA) provides grants to state vocational rehabilitation agencies to help individuals with disabilities train for employment, obtain employment, and live more independently.

RSA also provides grants to postsecondary schools for scholarships to students interested in pursuing careers in rehabilitation.

529 Plans

A 529 plan is a tax-advantaged savings plan designed to encourage saving for future college costs. 529 plans, legally known as "qualified tuition plans," are sponsored by states, state agencies, or educational institutions and are authorized by Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code.

There are two types of 529 plans:

1. Pre-paid tuition plans
2. College savings plans

All 50 states and DC sponsor at least one type of 529 plan. In addition, a group of private colleges and universities sponsor a pre-paid tuition plan.

Questions To Ask Before Investing in a 529 Plan

Knowing the answers to these questions may help you decide which 529 plan is best for you.

- What types of college expenses are covered by the plan?
- Which colleges and universities participate in the plan?
- Does the plan offer special benefits for state residents?
- Does my state's plan offer tax advantages or other benefits for investment in the plan it sponsors?
- What fees are charged by the plan?
- What are the plan's withdrawal restrictions?
- What limitations apply to the plan?
- When can an account holder change investment options, switch beneficiaries, or transfer ownership of the account to another account holder?

Details: www.sec.gov/investor/pubs/intro529.htm

The following chart outlines some of the major differences between pre-paid tuition plans and college savings plans.

529 Plan Differences

Prepaid Tuition Plan	College Savings Plan
Locks in tuition prices at eligible public and private colleges and universities.	No lock on college costs.
All plans cover tuition and mandatory fees only. Some plans allow you to purchase a room & board option or use excess tuition credits for other qualified expenses.	Covers all "qualified higher education expenses," including: • Tuition • Room & board • Mandatory fees • Books, computers (if required)
Most plans set lump sum and installment payments prior to purchase based on age of beneficiary and number of years of college tuition purchased.	Many plans have contribution limits in excess of $200,000.
Many state plans are guaranteed or backed by state.	No state guarantee. Most investment options are subject to market risk. Your investment may make no profit or even decline in value.
Most plans have age/grade limit for beneficiary.	No age limits. Open to adults and children.
Most state plans require either owner or beneficiary of plan to be a state resident.	No residency requirement. However, nonresidents may only be able to purchase some plans through financial advisers or brokers.
Most plans have limited enrollment period.	Enrollment open all year.

State Residency Basics

Eligibility requirements may vary by institution. So, it's important to contact schools that interest you to learn their requirements. Here are the basics:

- Students under age 18 or are claimed on their parents' tax returns are considered to have the same state residency as their parents. To prove a student's independence, they need to provide proof of their own support.
- Owning a business or a second home in the state of interest will not qualify parents as state residents for college tuition purposes. The home of principal residence is the primary factor.
- Documents required to become a state resident to qualify for reduced tuition rates could include any or all of the following:

- Driver's license
- State tax return
- Vehicle registration
- Voting registration
- Property ownership
- Auto insurance
- Property taxes
- Rental receipts

Additional documentation may be required. Producing specific documents is not always sufficient to verify true state residency.

Information provided in this section consists of:

- State residency (time period required to gain in-state residency status).
- Reciprocity (states providing reduced in-state tuition to students in other states).
- Military waiver (states granting immediate in-state residency to military personnel).

What is in-state tuition? The Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008 (HEOA) requires public institutions of higher education to charge a member of the armed forces who is on active duty for a period of more than 30 days, and whose domicile or permanent duty station is in a state that receives assistance under the HEA, their spouse, or their dependent children, in-state tuition rates for residents of the state.

In addition, if a member of the armed forces who is on active duty, their spouse, or their dependent child pays such an in-state tuition rate, the public institution must allow the individual to continue to pay such a rate as long as the individual is continuously enrolled, even if there is a change in the permanent duty station of the member to a location outside of the state.

MILITARY SOURCES: PROGRAMS & FUNDING FOR EDUCATION

This chapter offers valuable information for anyone considering military service and ways the service could help you pay for college. Active duty, veterans, and their dependents will also find a wealth of educational programs, benefits, and scholarship opportunities.

MILITARY SERVICE BRANCHES

The U.S. Military consists of five active-duty Services and their respective Guard and Reserve units:

- Army
- Marine Corps
- Navy
- Air Force
- Coast Guard

The President is the Commander in Chief, who is responsible for all final decisions. The Secretary of the Department of Defense (DoD) has control over the military and each branch (except the Coast Guard, which is under the Department of Homeland Security).

DID YOU KNOW?

With over 2 million civilian and military employees, the DoD is the world's largest "company."

Reserve and National Guard units perform as active-duty servicemembers on a part-time basis. These troops train close to home, deploying when necessary to aid in international conflict or domestic disaster relief.

JOIN THE MILITARY

MILITARY RECRUITING

A brief overview follows describing responsibilities associated with each military branch.

U.S. ARMY

Army personnel work in various jobs, ranging from general administration to operation and maintenance of the Army's thousands of weapons, vehicles, aircraft, and highly technical electronic systems.

Soldiers, working as a team, perform the Army's mission of protecting the security of the U.S. and its vital resources. The Army stands ready to defend American interests and the interests of our allies through land-based operations anywhere in the world. The Army needs 80,000–90,000 new enlistees yearly.

U.S. NAVY

The Navy is a large and diverse organization. Navy personnel operate and repair nearly 300 ships and over 4,000 aircraft. They serve as radio operators, network system administrators, dental specialists, seamen, computer programmers, photographers, ship electricians, gas turbine system technicians, and numerous exciting occupations.

Navy personnel serve on ships at sea, on submarines under the sea, in aviation positions on land and sea, and at shore bases around the world. The Navy needs approximately 40,000 new enlistees yearly.

U.S. AIR FORCE

The Air Force is the primary aerospace branch of our nation's armed forces. The mission of the Air Force is to defend the U.S. through control and exploitation of air and space. The Air Force flies, maintains, and supports the world's most technically advanced aerospace vehicles, including long-range bombers, supersonic fighters, Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) aircraft, and many others. These forces are used whenever and wherever necessary, to protect the interests of the U.S. and our allies.

Highly trained officers and airmen make up today's Air Force. Some pilot aircraft — from helicopters to the Space Shuttle. Others perform the jobs that support the Air Force's flying mission.They may work as firefighters, aircraft mechanics, security police, air traffic controllers, or in numerous other Air Force career fields.

The Air Force currently recruits 30,000–35,000 new enlistees each year to fill openings in hundreds of challenging Air Force careers.

U.S. Marine Corps

The Marine Corps is one of the most elite fighting forces in the world. The Marines are part of the Department of the Navy and operate in close cooperation with U.S. naval forces at sea. Marines serve on Navy ships, protect naval bases, guard U.S. embassies, and provide an ever-ready force to protect U.S. interests anywhere in the world.

Officers and enlisted Marines fly planes and helicopters; operate radar equipment; drive armored vehicles; gather intelligence; survey and map territory; maintain and repair radios, computers, vehicles, tanks, and aircraft; and perform hundreds of other challenging occupations. Yearly, the Marine Corps recruits about 40,000 individuals.

U.S. Coast Guard

The Guard constantly performs its mission of protecting America's coastline and inland waterways by enforcing customs and fishing laws, combating drug smuggling, conducting search and rescue missions, maintaining lighthouses, and promoting boating safety.

In times of peace, the Coast Guard operates as part of the Department of Homeland Security, serving as the nation's front-line agency for enforcing our laws at sea, protecting our coastline and ports, and saving lives. In times of war, or on the direction of the President, it serves under the U.S. Navy.

A vital part of the Armed Services, the Coast Guard has participated in every major American military campaign. Coast Guard personnel perform in numerous diverse occupations to support the missions of the Coast Guard. Each year, the Coast Guard has openings for over 4,000 men and women in a wide range of challenging careers.

ROTC (Reserve Officer's Training Corps)

ROTC prepares qualified young men and women for officer leadership positions in the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marines. Four-year ROTC scholarships pay for almost all tuition, fees, and textbooks for four years of college. The application process and benefits vary by Service.

SEE Summary/comparison of the ROTC Branches on 5-3.

Basic requirements:

- College students must take a full-course load. The curriculum includes military science courses that provide the specialized knowledge needed as an officer.
- ROTC candidates wear uniforms once a week during military labs, drills, military science presentations, and other practical training activities.
- ROTC summer programs offer a taste of military life — such as midshipmen cruises in Naval ROTC — and can round out a candidate's military training.

Military Academies

U.S. Air Force

Located near the Rocky Mountains near Colorado Springs, Colorado, the Air Force Academy annually accepts about 1,300 young men and women into its four-year program. Graduates earn a bachelor of science degree and an Air Force commission.

The program is intense, with a well-balanced curriculum that includes the physical and social sciences, humanities, and mathematics. In addition, the academy provides cadets with a background in space operations through courses such as astrodynamics and aeroengineering.

Admission to the Air Force Academy is usually made through nominations from U.S. Senators or Representatives, but other avenues to receive an admission appointment are also available.

U.S. Coast Guard

The U.S. Coast Guard Academy, located in New London, Connecticut, accepts about 250 young men and women into its program yearly. The four-year academic program leads to a bachelor of science degree in a variety of majors. Approximately 75% of the academy graduates earn degrees in technical areas such as engineering, sciences, and mathematics.

Each major provides a sound undergraduate education in a field of interest to the Coast Guard and prepares the cadet to assume initial duty as a junior officer. Upon graduation, the cadet is commissioned as an Ensign in the Coast Guard.

Appointment as a cadet is based solely on an annual nationwide competition. It is not necessary to obtain a nomination from a U.S. Senator or Representative. The competition includes the SAT or ACT, high school class rank, community service, and leadership qualities. Interested students should apply during the fall of their high school senior year.

Montgomery GI Bill

Post-9/11 GI Bill

The Post-9/11 GI Bill is a benefit providing educational assistance to individuals who served on active duty on or after September 11, 2001.

When can I receive benefits under the Post-9/11 GI Bill?

Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits are payable for training pursued on or after August 1, 2009. No payments can be made under this program for training pursued before that date.

Am I eligible?

At a minimum, you must have served at least 30 days of continuous active duty service after September 10, 2001, and be discharged due to a service-connected disability, or served an aggregate of 90 days of active duty service after September 10, 2001, and:

- Be honorably discharged from Armed Forces; or

- Be released from Armed Forces with service characterized as honorable and placed on the retired list, temporary disability retired list, or transferred to the Fleet Reserve or the Fleet Marine Corps Reserve; or
- Be released from Armed Forces with service characterized as honorable for further service in a reserve component; or
- Be discharged or released from Armed Forces for:
  - EPTS (Existed Prior to Service)
  - HDSP (Hardship) or
  - CIWD (Condition Interfered with Duty); or
- Continue to be on active duty.

If I am eligible for the Montgomery GI Bill (Chapter 30), Montgomery GI Bill-Selected Reserve (Chapter 1606), or the Reserve Educational Assistance Program (Chapter 1607), am I also eligible for Post-9/11 GI Bill?

You may elect to receive benefits under the Post-9/11 GI Bill if, on August 1, 2009, you have met the requirements to qualify for the Post-9/11 GI Bill and you are eligible for Chapter 30, 1606, 1607, or are serving in the Armed Forces.

How many months of assistance can I receive?

Generally, you may receive up to 36 months of entitlement under the Post-9/11 GI Bill.

How much will I receive?

You are entitled to a percentage, as determined by your length of active duty service, of the following:

- Amount of tuition and fees charged, not to exceed the most expensive in-state, undergraduate tuition at a public institution of higher education (paid to the school);
- Monthly housing allowance equal to the basic allowance for housing (BAH) amount payable to a military E-5 with dependents, in the same zip code as the school (paid to you); and
- Yearly books and supplies stipend up to $1,000 per year (paid to you); and
- One-time payment of $500 may be payable to certain individuals relocating from highly rural areas (paid to you).

Note: Housing allowance, books, and supplies stipend is not payable to individuals on active duty. Housing allowance is not payable for those pursuing training at half time or less or to individuals taking distance learning.

Individuals must serve an aggregate period of active duty after September 10, 2001, of:

Member Serves	% of Maximum Benefit Payable
At least 36 months	100%
At least 30 continuous days on active duty and discharged due to service-connected disability	100%
At least 30 months < 36 months	90%
At least 24 months < 30 months	80%
At least 18 months < 24 months	70%
At least 12 months < 18 months	60%
At least 6 months < 12 months	50%
At least 90 days < 6 months	40%

Examples:

- Tuition and fees charged for full time: $6,700
- Highest in-state tuition and fees: $7,000

Example 1: If you served for three years on active duty and separated, and you are going to school full time, in the above example you would be eligible for $6,700 for tuition and fees, the monthly housing allowance, and $1,000 for books and supplies.

Example 2: If you aggregated 12 months of active duty service in the guard or reserves, and were going to school full time, you would be eligible for $4,020 (60% of $6,700) for tuition and fees, $600 (60% of $1,000) for books and supplies stipend, and 60% of the monthly housing allowance.

How long am I eligible?

You will be eligible for benefits for 15 years from your last period of active duty of at least 90 consecutive days. If you were released for a service-connected, disability after at least 30 days of continuous service, you will also be eligible for benefits for 15 years.

What does the Post-9/11 GI Bill cover?

You may receive benefits for training programs approved for Chapter 30 that are offered by an institution of higher learning. This includes graduate and undergraduate training, and vocational/technical training. You may also receive benefits for tutorial assistance and reimbursement of one licensing and certification test.

Additionally, if you were eligible for Chapter 30, 1606 or 1607, and you elected to use benefits under the Post-9/11 GI Bill, you would be eligible to receive benefits for on-the-job training, apprenticeship training, correspondence courses, flight training, preparatory courses, and national exams.

Can I transfer my entitlement to my dependents?

If you are a member of the Armed Forces on August 1, 2009, the Department of Defense (DoD) may offer you the opportunity to transfer benefits to your spouse or dependent children.

Yellow Ribbon Program

The Yellow Ribbon GI Education Enhancement Program (Yellow Ribbon Program) is a provision of the Post-9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008. This program allows institutions of higher learning (degree granting institutions) in the U.S. to voluntarily enter into an agreement with the VA to fund tuition expenses that exceed the highest public in-state undergraduate tuition rate. The institution can contribute up to 50% of those expenses and the VA will match the same amount as the institution.

How Does the Yellow Ribbon Program Benefit Me?

The Post-9/11 GI Bill pays up to the highest public in-state undergraduate tuition and fees. You may have tuition and fees that exceed that amount if you are attending a private institution, graduate school or attending in an out-of-state status. If you are enrolled at a Yellow Ribbon participating institution and the tuition and fees exceed the highest public in-state undergraduate tuition or fees, additional funds may be available for your education program without an additional charge to your entitlement.

Institutions that voluntarily enter into a Yellow Ribbon Agreement with the VA choose the amount of tuition and fees that will be contributed. The VA will match that amount and issue payment directly to the institution.

Am I eligible?

Only individuals entitled to the maximum benefit rate (based on service requirements) may receive this funding. Therefore, you may be eligible, if:

- You served an aggregate period of active duty after September 10, 2001, of at least 36 months;
- You were honorably discharged from active duty for a service-connected disability and you served 30 continuous days after September 10, 2001;
- You are a dependent eligible for Transfer of Entitlement under the Post-9/11 GI Bill based on a veteran's service under eligibility criteria listed above.

What portion of tuition and fees charges will be considered under the Yellow Ribbon Program?

Difference of the amount charged to the student and what has been paid by the VA as educational assistance.

The following steps are provided to determine the difference for one student:

1. Student's enrolled credit hours reported by the institution to the VA x Maximum Credit Hour Charge for the State = Maximum Tuition Payable.
2. Compare the Maximum Tuition Payable with the amount charged the student. The VA will pay the institution the lesser amount.
3. Compare the Maximum Single Term Fees for your State with what you have charged the student. The VA will pay the institution the lesser amount.
4. Add amounts the VA has paid for tuition and fees and compare those with the total amount charged to the student. Institution charges that exceed what has already been paid by the VA are the difference that could be applied to the Yellow Ribbon Program.
5. Determine how much of the difference, up to one-half of that amount, the institution will agree to cover with funds of the institution and the VA will match that amount.

Example: The student enrolled in 12 credit hours during the fall term and the institution charged the student $5,000 for tuition and $1,200 in fees.

The Maximum Charge Per Credit Hour for the State = $250 and the Maximum Fees for a single term = $1,000:

1. 12 credit hours x $250 = $3,000 – VA will pay $3,000 of the $5,000 tuition charged
2. VA will pay $1,000 of the $1,200 fees charged

3. VA has paid $4,000 of the $6,200 charged the student. $2,200 could be applied to the Yellow Ribbon Program
4. Your institution can choose to contribute up to $1,100 of this amount and VA will match that contribution.

Transfer of Post-9/11 GI Bill Benefits to Dependents (TEB)

For the first time in history, servicemembers enrolled in the Post-9/11 GI Bill program will be able to transfer unused educational benefits to their spouse or children (effective August 1, 2009).

For questions on your eligibility for TEB, contact your service career counselor or personnel center. VA does not determine eligibility for TEB.

Who is eligible for TEB?

Any member of the Armed Forces (active duty or Selected Reserve, officer or enlisted) on or after August 1, 2009, who is eligible for the Post-9/11 GI Bill, and:

- Has at least six years of service in the Armed Forces on the date of election and agrees to serve four additional years in the Armed Forces from the date of election.
- Has at least 10 years of service in the Armed Forces (active duty and/or selected reserve) on the date of election, is precluded by either standard policy (service or DoD) or statute from committing to four additional years, and agrees to serve for the maximum amount of time allowed by such policy or statute, or
- Is or becomes retirement eligible during the period from August 1, 2009–August 1, 2013. A service member is considered to be retirement eligible, if they have completed 20 years of active duty or 20 qualifying years of reserve service.

Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship

Public Law 111-32, the Marine Gunnery Sergeant John David Fry Scholarship, amends the Post-9/11 GI Bill (chapter 33) to include the children of service members who die in the line of duty after Sept. 10, 2001. The benefit is effective August 1, 2009; the same day the Post-9/11 GI Bill takes effect. Eligible children attending school may receive:

- Full tuition and fees paid directly to the school for all public school in-state students. For those attending private or foreign schools tuition and fees are capped at $17,500 per academic year.
- Students attending a private Institute of Higher Learning in AZ, MI, NH, NY, PA, SC, or TX may be eligible for a higher tuition reimbursement rate.
- A monthly housing allowance.
- A books & supplies stipend.

Montgomery GI Bill–Active Duty (MGIB-AD/Chapter 30)

MGIB-AD may be used while on active duty after serving 24 months or after separation from active duty.

General Eligibility:

- You must have first enlisted on or after July 1, 1985.
- You must have had a pay reduction of $1,200.
- You must have had continuous active duty equal to or greater than your initial enlistment period.
- Some VEAP participants were able to convert to the GI Bill during special conversion programs.

You can receive GI Bill payments for:

- Attending classes that lead to a college degree like an associate's, bachelor's, master's or doctorate degree.
- Vocational programs that lead to a degree or certificate.
- Independent study such as online or internet training.
- Correspondence training (55% of approved costs).

- On-the-job (OJT) or apprenticeship training, reimbursed:
  - 85% of the full-time GI Bill rate for the first six months of training.
  - 65% for the second six months.
  - 45% for the remainder of the training.
  - You also receive a salary from your employer.
- Flight training: Up to 60% of approved charges (must have private pilot license and valid medical certificate).
- Licensing and certification, up to $2,000 per exam (pass or fail).
- Entrepeneurship classes offered through the Small Business Development Center or the National Veterans Business Development Center.
- High cost/high tech courses: Up to 60% of the charges may be reimbursed.

Apply by filling out VA Form 22-1990, Application for Education Benefits.

Current Payment Rates

The monthly benefit paid to you is based on the type of training you take, length of your service, your category, and if DoD put extra money in your MGIB Fund (called "kickers"). You usually have 10 years to use your MGIB benefits, but the time limit can be less, in some cases, and longer under certain circumstances.

Rates:
www.gibill.va.gov/resources/benefits_resources/rate_tables.html

$600 Buy-Up Program

Some servicemembers may contribute up to an additional $600 to the GI Bill to receive increased monthly benefits. For an additional $600 contribution, you may receive up to $5,400 in additional GI Bill benefits. The additional contribution must be made while on active duty.

Details: Contact your payroll office for information.

College Fund Programs

Usually given to members who enlisted in specific job specialties. The college fund payments are added to the regular GI Bill payments and are prorated the in the same manner as regular GI Bill payments.

Montgomery GI Bill–Selected Reserve (MGIB-SR/Chapter 1606)

MGIB-SR provides education benefits to members of the Army Reserve, Navy Reserve, Air Force Reserve, Marine Corps Reserve, Coast Guard Reserve, Army National Guard, and the Air National Guard. This program is also known as Chapter 1606.

This program provides up to 36 months of education benefits payable 14 years from your date of eligibility, or up to the day you leave the Selected Reserve. This benefit may be used for degree and certificate programs, technical or vocational training, flight training, apprenticeship/on-the-job training, and correspondence courses. Non-credit remedial, deficiency, and refresher courses may be approved under certain circumstances.

To be eligible for benefits, a reservist must:

- Have a six-year obligation to serve in the Selected Reserve signed after June 30, 1985, or if an officer, agree to serve six years in addition to the original obligation;
- Complete Initial Active Duty for Training (IADT);
- Have a high school diploma or equivalency certificate before applying for benefits; and
- Remain in good standing in a Selected Reserve unit.

Reserve Educational Assistance Program (REAP/Chapter 1607)

REAP was established as a part of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005. A Department of Defense education benefit program designed to provide educational assistance to members of the Reserve components called or ordered to active duty in response to a war or national emergency (contingency operation) as declared by the President or Congress. The Department of Defense (DoD) and the Department of Homeland Security will determine who is eligible for this program. The Department of Veterans Affairs will administer the program and pay benefits from funds contributed by DoD.

DEPENDENTS' EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (DEA)

Beginning August 1, 2011, break (or interval pay) will no longer be payable under DEA except during periods your school is closed as a result of an Executive Order of the President or an emergency (such as a natural disaster or strike).

For example, if your fall term ends on December 15 and your spring term begins January 10, your January housing allowance will cover 15 days in December and your February housing allowance will cover 21 days in January.

Dependents' Educational Assistance provides education and training opportunities to eligible dependents of certain veterans. The program offers up to 45 months of education benefits. These benefits may be used for degree and certificate programs, apprenticeship, and on-the-job training. If you are a spouse, you may take a correspondence course. Remedial, deficiency, and refresher courses may be approved under certain circumstances.

Eligibility: You must be son, daughter, or spouse of:

- Veteran who died or is permanently and totally disabled as the result of a service-connected disability. Disability must arise out of active service in the Armed Forces.
- Veteran who died from any cause while such service-connected disability was in existence.
- Servicemember missing in action or captured in line of duty by a hostile force.
- Servicemember forcibly detained or interned in line of duty by a foreign government or power.
- Servicemember who is hospitalized or receiving outpatient treatment for a service connected permanent and total disability and is likely to be discharged for that disability. This change is effective December 23, 2006.

TUITION SUPPORT PROGRAMS

Tuition Assistance: The rising cost of tuition can be hard to manage, but the Military's Tuition Assistance Program pays for up to 100% of the cost of tuition or expenses, up to a maximum of $250 per credit and a personal maximum of $4,500 per fiscal year per student. This program is the same for full-time-duty members in all Military Services. Selected Reserve and National Guard units also offer Tuition Assistance Programs, although the benefits may vary from the Active Duty program.

LOAN REPAYMENT PROGRAMS

- Army: Soldiers can qualify to have their loan repaid by the military at the rate of one-third of the loan for each year of full-time duty served (maximum loan repayment is $65,000). The Army even helps soldiers pay off student loans they've taken out, provided they attended schools on an approved Perkins, Stafford, or other department of education guaranteed student loan.
- Navy: A $65,000 Loan Repayment Program is available for full-time duty. Qualifications include no prior military service, a high school diploma, and a loan guaranteed under the Higher Education Act of 1965. You must qualify for Navy Nuclear Field or other designated critical rating as defined by the U.S. Navy. Other restrictions apply.
- Air Force: The College Loan Repayment Program (CLRP) was created for all non-prior servicepersons considering enlistment in the Air Force. For young people who have taken some college courses and have accumulated debt, this could be the perfect opportunity. Participants must sign up for this program when signing the enlistment contract. Under CLRP, repayment maximum is $10,000 per recruit.

CREDIT PROGRAMS

MILITARY SCHOOL CREDITS

The military has a network of over 300 schools and over 10,000 courses to train members in skills necessary for over 4,100 occupations. About 60% of these courses are certified for college credit by the American Council on Education (ACE). A credit is not a credit until approved by the college.

Servicemember Opportunity Colleges (SOC)

SOC was created to provide educational opportunities to servicemembers, who, because they frequently moved from place to place, had trouble completing college degrees. SOC is a group of nearly 1,900 colleges and universities that agree to transfer credits among themselves for military members and their families. Degrees are available also offered via distance learning that require no classroom residency.

Community College of the Air Force (CCAF)

CCAF offers education programs directly related to Air Force specialties; graduates are awarded an associate degree. The college works with Air Force training schools, regional accrediting agencies, and hundreds of cooperating civilian colleges and universities.

Since the technical nature of most Air Force courses places them on a level with college study, airmen earn fully recognized college credits for most of what they learn in job training and on-the-job training. They can combine those credits with attendance at off-duty courses from civilian colleges to earn a two-year accredited associate in applied science degree from CCAF.

The college offers 67 fields of study, ranging from criminal justice to explosive ordinance disposal technology. Registration is free, and CCAF establishes a special study program for each student. Since issuing its first degree in 1977, the college has awarded more than 335,000 associate in applied science degrees.

Troops to Teachers (TTT)

TTT provides Counseling and Referral services to military personnel interested in beginning a second career in public education as a teacher.

The DANTES TTT office will help applicants identify teacher certification requirements, programs leading to certification and employment opportunities.

Pending availability of funds, stipend, and bonus recipients must agree to teach for three years in school locations that meet certain Department of Education criteria. The maximum amount of assistance is $10,000 per person. Specific requirements:

- Stipends of up to $5,000 are available to reimburse costs associated with becoming certified to teach. Recipients of these stipends must agree to teach for three years in a school located in a "high-need" district.
- Bonuses of $10,000 are available to those who agree to teach for three years in a school that serves a high percentage of students from low-income families.

State Sources

In-State Tuition

The Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008 (HEOA) requires public institutions of higher education to charge a member of the armed forces who is on active duty for a period of more than 30 days, and whose domicile or permanent duty station is in a state that receives assistance under the HEA, their spouse, or their dependent children, in-state tuition rates for residents of the state.

In addition, if a member of the armed forces who is on active duty, their spouse, or their dependent child pays such an in-state tuition rate, the public institution must allow the individual to continue to pay such a rate as long as the individual is continuously enrolled, even if there is a change in the permanent duty station of the member to a location outside of the state.

IMPORTANT

This chapter contains only a short listing of state offerings for veterans and their families.

To locate additional state funding:

- Visit your state's website (URL listed in this chapter).
- Consult with your veterans' coordinator.
- Talk with your college financial aid office.

Scholarships for Military Children Program in its first ten years, through the generosity of Defense Commissary Agency business partners and others, a total of 5,402 students, all sons or daughters of commissary patrons, have shared $8,311,000 in scholarship grants. They were selected from a pool of nearly 58,000 applicants.

Program is primarily funded through the generosity of manufacturers and suppliers whose products are sold at military commissaries, worldwide. Military families should take advantage of their commissary benefits that not only provide a savings of more than 30% on the products purchased, but also support the military community through programs such as this scholarship.

Minimum of one $1,500 scholarship will be awarded at every commissary location where qualified applications are received. More than one scholarship per commissary may be available based on response and funding. The scholarship provides for payment of tuition, books, lab fees, and other related expenses.

National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) was established in 1955 as an independent, not-for-profit organization that operates without government assistance. Each year, NMSC conducts two nationwide competitions for recognition and college undergraduate scholarships:

- National Merit® Scholarship Program is open to all U.S. high school students who meet entry requirements.
- National Achievement® Scholarship Program in which only black american students participate.

Since its founding, NMSC has recognized 2.6 million students and provided over 314,000 scholarships worth $1.2 billion. The honors awarded by NMSC to exceptional students are viewed as definitive marks of excellence.

Registration for the test is by high school rather than individual student. Interested students should contact their counselor at the beginning of the school year to make arrangements to take the PSAT/NMSQT® at the school in October.

Student Entry Requirements: To participate in these programs, a student must:

- Take the PSAT/NMSQT in the specified year of the high school program and no later than the third year in grades 9–12, regardless of grade classification or educational pattern;
- Be enrolled full time as a high school student, progressing normally toward graduation or completion of high school, and planning to enroll full time in college no later than the fall following completion of high school; and
- Be a citizen of the U.S.; or be a U.S. lawful permanent resident (or have applied for permanent residence, the application for which has not been denied) and intend to become a U.S. citizen at the earliest opportunity allowed by law.
- National Achievement Scholarship Program Only: Request entry to the National Achievement Program by marking Section 14 on the PSAT/NMSQT answer sheet, thereby identifying yourself as a black american who wishes to be considered in this competition as well.

Application: Entry requirements and the awards are published annually in the PSAT/NMSQT Official Student Guide, sent to schools for distribution to students before the PSAT/NMSQT is given in October. Download www.nationalmerit.org/student_guide.pdf.

The Spencer Foundation The Dissertation Fellowship Program seeks to encourage a new generation of scholars from a wide range of disciplines and professional fields to undertake research relevant to the improvement of education.

These $25,000 fellowships support individuals whose dissertations show potential for bringing fresh and constructive perspectives to the history, theory, or practice of formal or informal education anywhere in the world. This highly competitive program aims to identify the most talented researchers conducting dissertation research related to education. Like all Spencer Foundation programs, the Dissertation Fellowship program receives many more applications than it can fund. This year, up to 600 applications are anticipated and up to 25 fellowships will be awarded.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION

Cooperative Education (or "co-op") is a unique plan of education which integrates classroom study with paid and related-work experience. Co-op is not a scholarship or financial aid program, but this educational curriculum can provide significant earnings for students while they complete their degree.

Academic classes are integrated with planned, supervised employment positions in a field related to the student's education or career goals. Co-op graduates gain practical skills, career direction, and a comprehensive education. They also emerge with an impressive resume and contacts for future employment.

You can find cooperative education programs in a wide range of majors. Co-op plans may involve working part time while in school, or alternating terms of classroom study and work. At a time when many potential college students cannot afford the increasing costs of higher education, co-op can provide a solution.

Students are assigned to real jobs for real pay. Therefore, cooperative education is a form of higher education curriculum that allows students to work in the adult world, gaining realistic experience, and a professional resume by the time they graduate, as well as earning financial benefits to offset their tuition expenses.

To learn more about co-op, visit these websites:

- Cooperative Education & Internship Association, Inc. (CEIA), www.ceiainc.org
- National Commission for Cooperative Education (NCCE), www.co-op.edu

Chapter 7

FOUR-YEAR SCHOOL PROFILES

The American Legion extends thanks and appreciation to The College Board for providing the school profile information in this chapter.

Use the data in this chapter to quickly estimate how much your choice schools cost and view contact information, enrollment, application deadlines, and ROTC offerings. Next, visit www.CollegeBoard.com to access their College Search to find detailed information on two- and four-year colleges and universities by specific characteristics.

College Search offers two searching options.

- College Matchmaker to find colleges that meet your needs.
- College QuickFinder to explore a school already familiar to you.

Either way, you'll find the latest information on 3,800+ colleges, plus a wealth of information on planning and paying for college.

The data provided on four-year colleges is based on the 2010 Annual Survey of Colleges conducted by the College Board. The information, copyright 2010 by College Entrance Examination Board, is reprinted with permission from the College Board.

Costs, dates, policies, and programs are subject to change, so please confirm important facts with college admission personnel.

The College Board College Handbook 2012 contains objective information on every accredited college in the U.S. — 2,150 four-year colleges and universities, and 1,650 two-year community colleges and technical schools. With its clearly laid-out entries and more than 40 indexes, the Handbook is a fast, easy way for students to narrow a college search and compare the schools that they're interested in. Suggested retail price is $29.99.

Planning for College

97 Things to Do Before You Finish High School

Being in high school is about a lot more than going to high school. It's about discovering new places, new hobbies, and new people — and opening your eyes to the world. This book is about the stuff they don't teach you in high school, like how to host a film festival, plan your first road trip, make a podcast, or write a manifesto. Want to make a time capsule? Spend a day in silence? Learn how to make beats like a DJ? Or shut down your house party before the police do? Whatever your creative, social, or academic inclinations, you'll find 97 ways on these pages to amuse, educate, and interest yourself, and your friends. Because your life doesn't stop at 3 p.m. each day — it just gets started.

College-Prep Homeschooling: Your Complete Guide to Homeschooling through High School

Chandra Byers is a homeschooling mother of six, and David Byers has a Ph.D. in education and teaches education at the college level. Their oldest is now attending college on a scholarship, after having been homeschooled all her life. With their combination of experience and expertise, they show us how parents can continue to homeschool their children through high school in subjects for which they are not experts. Not only that, but they demonstrate how these home-taught children are fully prepared for college and are often superior performers. Not only has Dr. Byers helped prepare his own homeschooled children for college, but he has seen first-hand how many homeschooled students have done in college.

Glossary

529 Savings Plan: 529 plans are more than just savings accounts. These state-sponsored college savings plans were established by the federal government in Section 529 of the Internal Revenue Code to encourage families to save more for college. They offer unique state and federal tax benefits, making them one of the best ways to save for college.

~ A

AA/AS: Associate Degree; Associate of Applied Science or Associate of General Studies; typically require two years or 60 college credits to complete.

Academic Year: Period of time schools use to measure a quantity of study. For example, a school's academic year may consist of a fall and spring semester, during which a student must complete 24 semester hours. Academic years vary from school to school, and even from program to program at the same school.

Accreditation: School must have accreditation from an accrediting body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education to be eligible to participate in the administration of federal student aid programs. Accreditation means the school meets certain minimum academic standards, as defined by the accrediting body.

Accrued Interest: Interest that accumulates on the unpaid loan principal balance.

ACT: A national college admission examination that consists of subject area tests in English, mathematics, reading, and science. ACT results are accepted by almost all U.S. colleges and universities. The ACT is administered on five test dates — in October, December, February, April, and June.

AP: Advanced Placement. College level courses taken as a part of a high school program that offers advanced students the opportunity to take courses with more challenging college-level content. Students who complete courses are eligible to take the exams for college credit at most colleges and universities.

Automatic Zero EFC: An Expected Family Contribution (EFC) status where, because of low income, a student automatically has a zero EFC. See also Expected Family Contribution (EFC).

Award Letter: An official document issued by a financial aid office listing all the financial aid awarded to the student. The award letter will include information about the cost of attendance and terms and conditions for the financial aid.

~ B

BA: Bachelor of arts degree. Earned at four-year colleges. Type of degree awarded depends on the types of courses offered by a particular school.

Borrower: Individual who signed and agreed to the terms in the promissory note and is responsible for repaying a loan.

BS: Bachelor of science. Earned at four-year colleges. Type of degree awarded depends on the types of courses offered by a school.

Budget: Total cost of attending a postsecondary institution for one academic year. The student's budget usually includes tuition, fees, room, board, books, supplies, travel, and personal expenses. Each school develops its own student budget.

Bursar's Office: The university office that is responsible for the billing and collection of university charges.

~ C

Campus-Based Aid: Financial aid programs administered by the school. The federal government provides postsecondary institutions with a fixed annual allocation which is awarded by the financial aid administrator to deserving students. Examples are Perkins Loan Program, Federal Supplemental Education Opportunity Grant (FSEOG), and Federal Work-Study Program.

CLEP: College Level Examination Program. Earn college credit for passing a subject specific examination.

Cooperative Work-Study Education: Program where the student alternates between full-time college study and full-time paid employment related to the student's area of study. Under this plan, a bachelor degree often requires five years to complete.

Co-signer: Individual who signs the promissory note in addition to the borrower and is responsible for the obligation, if the borrower does not pay.

Cost of Attendance (COA): Total cost to attend a postsecondary institution for one academic year.

Credit Report: Contains details about your borrowing habits and money-management skills. Lenders use credit reports to determine if they should approve a loan and to set the terms (interest rate, fees, and length) of the loan.

Credit Score: A number, generally between 330 and 830, that reflects the credit history shown in a borrower's credit report and is part of the process of setting interest rates and terms for loans. To arrive at a single score, a credit bureau assigns numerical values to specific pieces of a borrower's personal financial information, such as outstanding debt, the number of inquiries on your credit history, the number of open accounts, etc. These values are put through a series of mathematical calculations to produce the single number, the credit score. A borrower's credit score is considered predictive of the borrower's future credit performance.

Default: Failure to repay a loan according to the agreed terms.

Delinquency: Failure to make monthly loan payments when due. Delinquency begins with the first missed payment.

Dependent Student: A student who does not meet any of the criteria for an independent student. An independent student one of the following: At least 24 years old, married, a graduate or professional student, a veteran, a member of the armed forces, an orphan, a ward of the court, or someone with legal dependents other than a spouse.

Direct Loan: William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program. Loans made through this program are referred to as Direct Loans. Eligible students and parents borrow directly from the U.S. Department of Education at participating schools. Direct Loans include subsidized and unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans (also known as Direct Subsidized Loans and Direct Unsubsidized Loans), Direct PLUS Loans, and Direct Consolidation Loans. You repay these loans directly to the U.S. Department of Education.

Disbursement: Payment of loan proceeds by the lender. During consolidation, this term refers to sending payoffs to the loan holders of the underlying loans being consolidated.

Endowment: Funds owned by an institution and invested to produce income to support the operation of the institution. Many educational institutions use a portion of their endowment income for financial aid.

Enrollment Status: An indication of whether you are a full-time or part-time student. Generally you must be enrolled at least-half-time (and in some cases full time) to qualify for financial aid.

Entrance Counseling: Students with federal educational loans are required to receive counseling before they receive their first loan disbursement, during which the borrower's rights and responsibilities and loan terms and conditions are reviewed with the student.

Expected Family Contribution (EFC): The number that's used to determine your eligibility for federal student financial aid. This number results from the financial information you provided in your FAFSA application. Your EFC is reported to you on your Student Aid Report (SAR).

~ F

FAT: Financial Aid Transcript. A record of all federal aid received by students at each school attended.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG): Federal grant funds made available through some schools to a limited number of undergraduate students with exceptional financial need.

Federal Work-Study Program (FWS): Financial aid enabling students to earn money to cover school costs through employment.

Fellowship: Aid given to graduate students to help support their education. Some fellowships include tuition waivers or payments to colleges in lieu of tuition. Fellowships are a form of gift aid and do not have to be repaid.

FFELP: Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program. Private lenders provide funds that are guaranteed by the federal government. FFEL Loans include subsidized and unsubsidized FFEL Stafford Loans, FFEL PLUS Loans, and FFEL Consolidation Loans. You repay these loans to the bank or private lender that made you the loan. As of July 1, 2010, all new Stafford loans will be made under the Direct Loan Program.

Financial Aid: Money dispersed to students to help pay for their education. Major forms of financial aid include gift aid (grants and scholarships) and self-help aid (loans and work-study).

Financial Aid Administrator (FAA): Individual who works at a college or career school and is responsible for preparing and communicating information on student loans, grants or scholarships and employment programs. The FAA and staff help students apply for and receive student aid. The FAA is also capable of analyzing student needs and making professional judgment changes when necessary.

Financial Aid Package: Total amount of financial aid (federal and nonfederal) a student receives such as grants, loans, or work-study are combined in a "package" to help meet the student's monetary need.

Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA): Application submitted by a student that collects household and financial information used by the federal government to calculate the Expected Family Contribution (EFC).

~ G

General Educational Development (GED) Diploma: It is sometimes referred to as "General Equivalency Diploma", "General Education(al) Diploma" or "high school equivalency." It is a battery of tests that, when passed, certifies the student has high school academic skills. The GED test is a test of equivalency for the high school diploma.

Gift Aid: Financial aid, such as grants, scholarships, and fellowships which does not need to be repaid.

Grade Point Average (GPA): Cumulative average of course work, usually on a four-point scale. A=4.0, B=3.0, C=2.0, D=1.0, F=0.0; High school GPA is reported on high school transcripts and used in admission evaluation. Postsecondary GPA is used for evaluation of transfer students moving from one institution to another.

Grace Period: Period after borrowers graduate, leave school, or drop below half-time enrollment, loans that were made for that period of study have several months before payments are due. During the grace period, no interest accrues on subsidized loans. Interest accrues on unsubsidized loans during grace periods, and this interest is capitalized when borrowers' loans enter repayment.

Graduate Student: Student in a postsecondary institution enrolled in a master's or higher level degree program.

Grant: Funds given to a student usually based on financial need which do not need to be paid back.

~ I
